Happiness was a multitude of things to ISU students . . . the excitement of meeting new people . . . the peace of mind when you were alone with your own thoughts . . . the thrill of a hard fought victory . . . the security and contentment of love . . . but it was more than this . . . it was an ever-growing chorus of voices telling the world of better things to come.

Happiness Is . . .

Stop and go people . . . an ever-changing kaleidoscope of events which only the hand of time could paint . . . reflections on windows, streets, and people . . . chance meetings which brought happiness or tears . . . thus, Terre Haute and ISU blended together to create a unified picture of community life.

The faces that told so many stories . . . thet tears of rejection and failure . . . the intenseness that could only come with academic awakening . . . the smiles and gladness as dreams came true . . . all these were people and it was people laughing, crying, and working who composed the heartbeat of ISU.

People . . .

Moods . . .

Sunlight through an open window . . . that blue moment when things could go no lower . . . an empty cup of coffee . . . the loneliness of togetherness provoked many serious thoughts. Each distinctly unique individual merged his moods with those of ISU to create many reflections on the faces of many people.

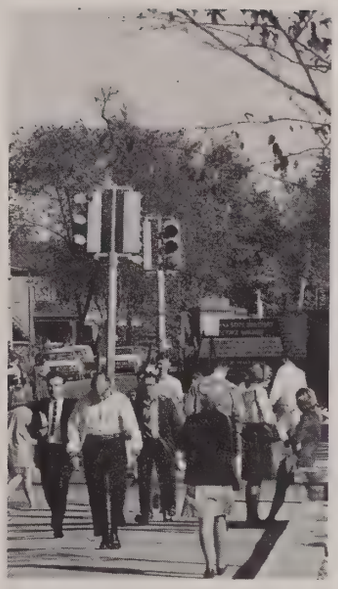
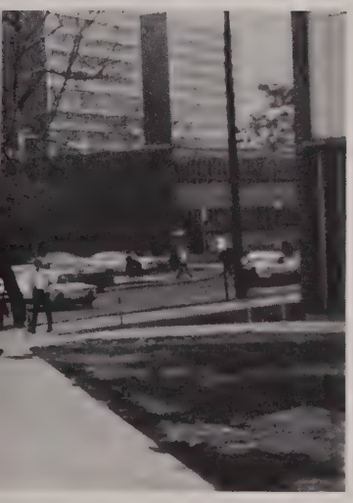
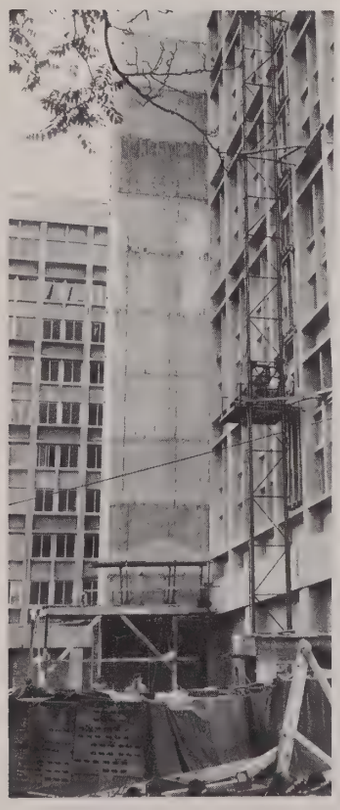
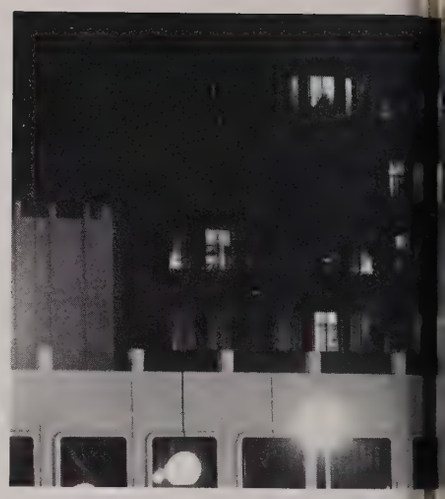
Happiness Is . . .

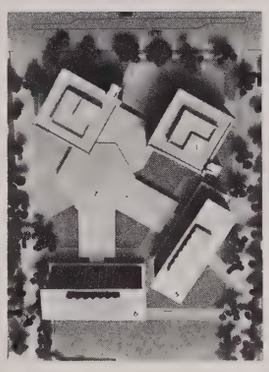


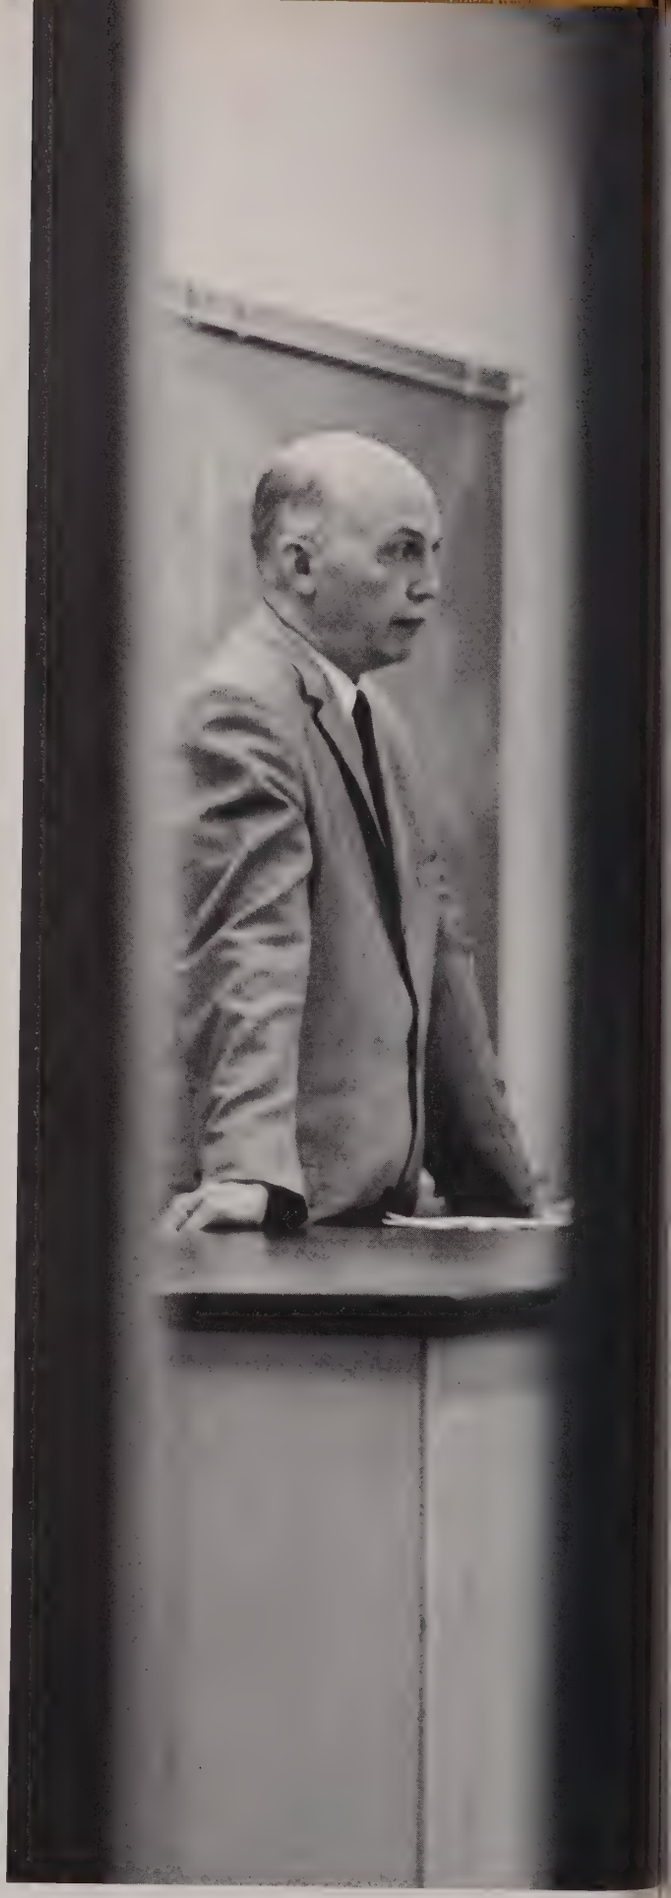




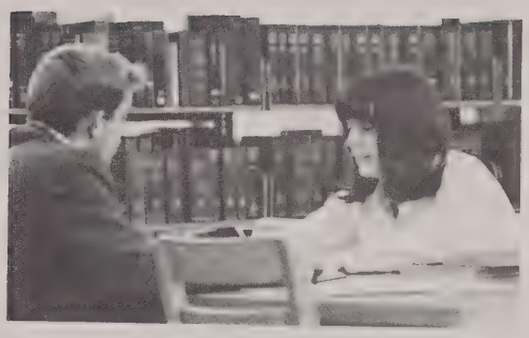


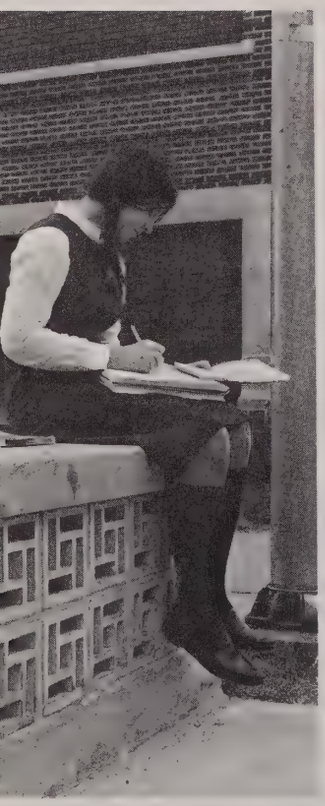
The aging of the old and the birth of the new . . . footprints in freshly poured cement . . . remnants of wood, steel, and brick . . . the ever-rising and ever-falling which produced a new silhouette against the sky—these were the words of change which told of our growth.

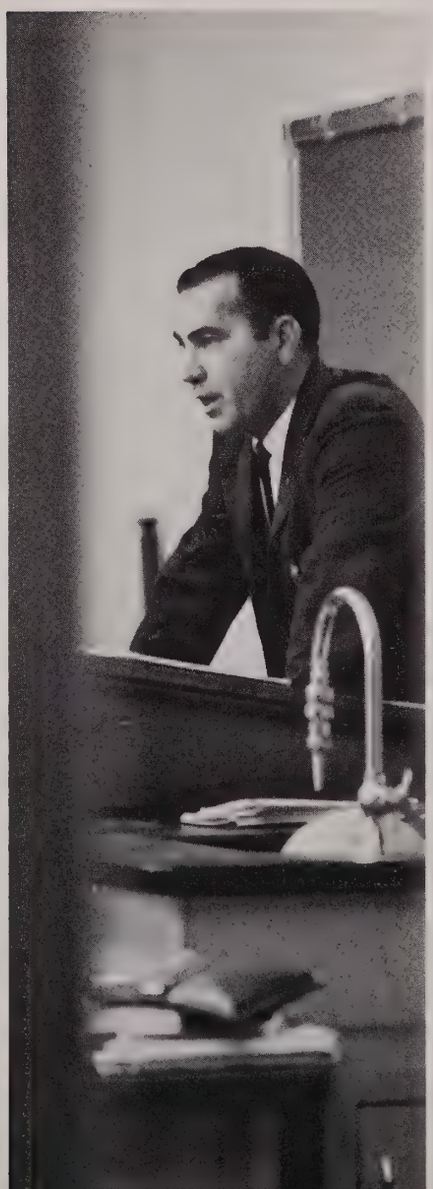


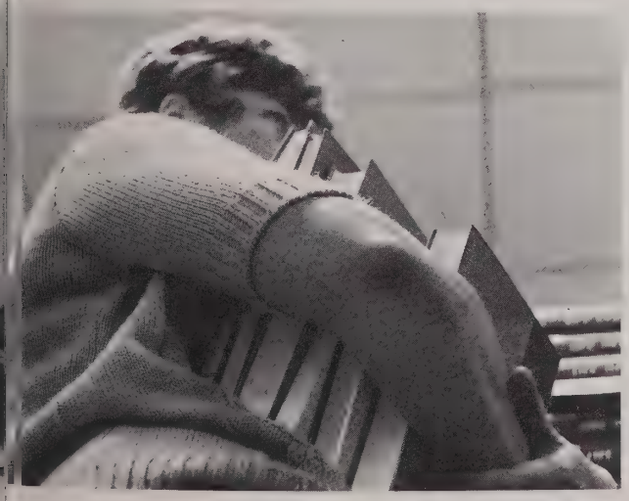


Learning . . .









The human mind proved to be a vast enigma, like a gigantic maze whose only road away from entanglement lay on the road to education. We were travelers on just that road, and with each step we learned.

A conglomeration of sounds and smiles that could only mean free time . . . the fresh ingenuity and easy companionship which mark our generation . . . lighthearted times to wash away the bittersweet pains of growing up . . . for these precious moments we were grateful.

Activity . . .

Culture . . .

America . . . an abstract combination of faces and institutions . . . the appreciation and acceptance of mankind's finest efforts in diverse fields . . . the sounds and voices of man's past echoed into the present only to become the past of tomorrow.

EVENTS

Highlighting the entire inaugural procession, the University Board of Trustees, with President-to-be Alan C. Rankin, entered the ISU Arena for the formal inaugural ceremonies.

Flanked by Governor Branigan and former governor Welch, the newly inaugurated ISU President Rankin accepted the Presidential Medal.

Dr. Alan C. Rankin Inaugurated ISU President

Colorfully attired in robes representing their respective universities and degrees of honor, the ISU faculty and honored guests marched impressively down Chestnut Street into the Arena for the morning's proceedings.

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, conducted by William Steinberg, provided music for inauguration festivities.

Honored guests, faculty members, and students were invited to the reception at Mills Hall. Many people personally chated with the President and Mrs. Rankin.

President Rankin addressed honored guests, among whom were Dr. E. Starr, Dr. F. Hovde, and Dr. J. Emmonds, the recipients of ISU honorary degrees.

The Inaugural Ball began with President and Mrs. Rankin's grand entrance, providing a breathless and exciting climax to the festivities of the past two days.

For three majestic days, a gilded campus inaugurated a president en grandeur in the first such pageant in the 100 years of Indiana State University. President Alan C. Rankin became the 7th president amidst the dignity of the inaugural ceremony and the pomp of the inaugural ball—his audience; governors, dignitaries, and his own faculty and student body.

Fall Registration Hit a Peak of 10,000 Students

Enthusiastic freshmen faced their first university discipline with the traditional wearing of the unloved "state beanie."

Bewilderment concerning the semester was a common feeling during registration.

The last few tables in the bi-annual process of registration were relieving to the students and their hours of negotiations.

Strangers became friends during table discussions on classes and professors.

Accompanying the formality of class registration was the informality of buying campus calendars, Blue Books, and Sycamores.

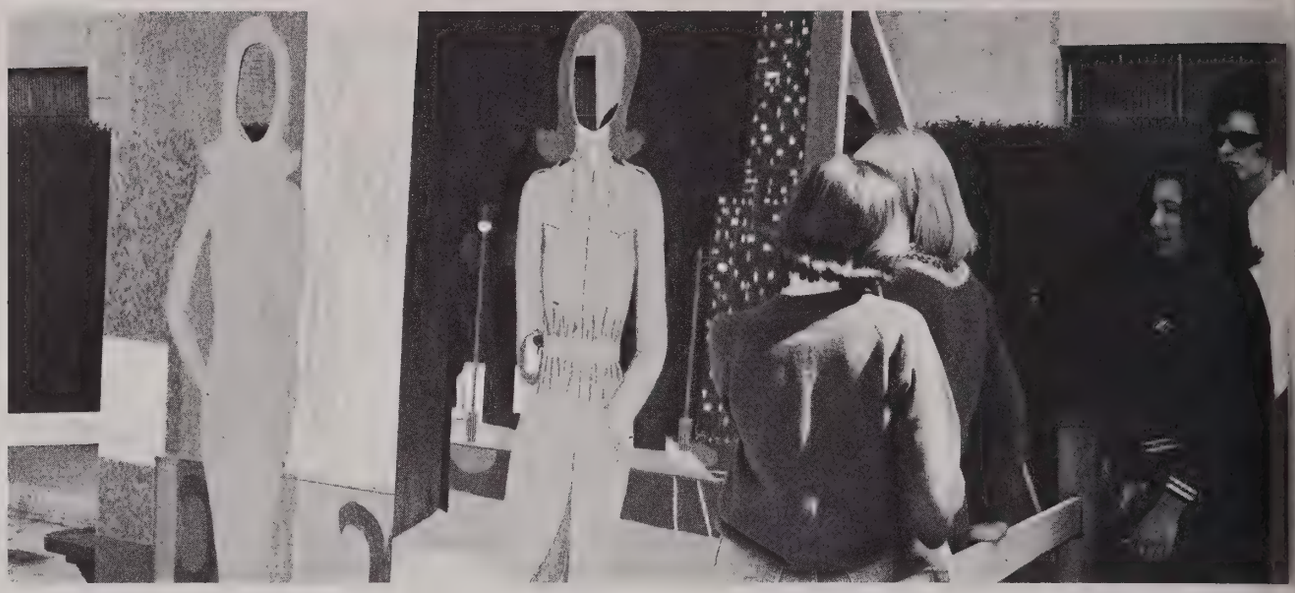
Post-Registration Was a Flurry of Activities

Freshman were anxious to buy a T-shirt or a sweatshirt with the name of their new school on it.

After registration, students were found stalking the isles of Plato's and the ISU Bookstore preparing for the semester.

Excitement and tensions were relieved as students renewed friendships and found recreation at fraternity houses.

Residence hall students enhanced their open houses and mixers with singing, guitar playing, and dancing talents.



Setting up the booths was just a part of the many hours of planning and hard labor on the part of everybody in preparation for campus carnival.

Campus Carnival Started ISU Social Life

The success of Campus Carnival was attributed not only to the many participants but also to the chairman, Jan Prox—coordinator of all the activities.

What met the eye was not always all that was going on, for much of the work was carried on behind the scenes.

A continuous flow of observers watched as the ISU students displayed their versatility by participation in the talent show.

Delta Gammas got a chance to prove how 'sea-going' they were as they claimed the original booth award.

Gamma Phi Beta was in a good 'moo-d' as they received the award for the best booth, "The Utter End."

"Catch a Date with Reeve" was the theme of the booth selling the most tickets sponsored by Reeve Hall.

The excitement and variety offered by the different booths often made it difficult to decide which one to go to next.

The booths were torn down the next morning, but the memories of Campus Carnival will live on for years to come.

1966 Marked ISU's 50th Annual Homecoming

Liz Jones and Mike Staats, co-chairmen of the 1966 Homecoming, rode in the Homecoming Parade with Mrs. C. Rush, acting director of Student Activities.

"Please Smile Emmet Kelly," theme for Queen's Convocation, depicted Emmet as he anxiously awaited the presentation of the 1966 Homecoming Queen.

At the Queen's Coronation Miss Dee Goodnight, a sophomore from Peru, Indiana representing Blumburg Hall was chosen the 1966 Homecoming Queen by the male student body. Miss Linda Jaynes representing Pickerl Hall was selected first runner-up and Miss Janice Cruse representing Alpha Xi Delta was chosen second runner-up.

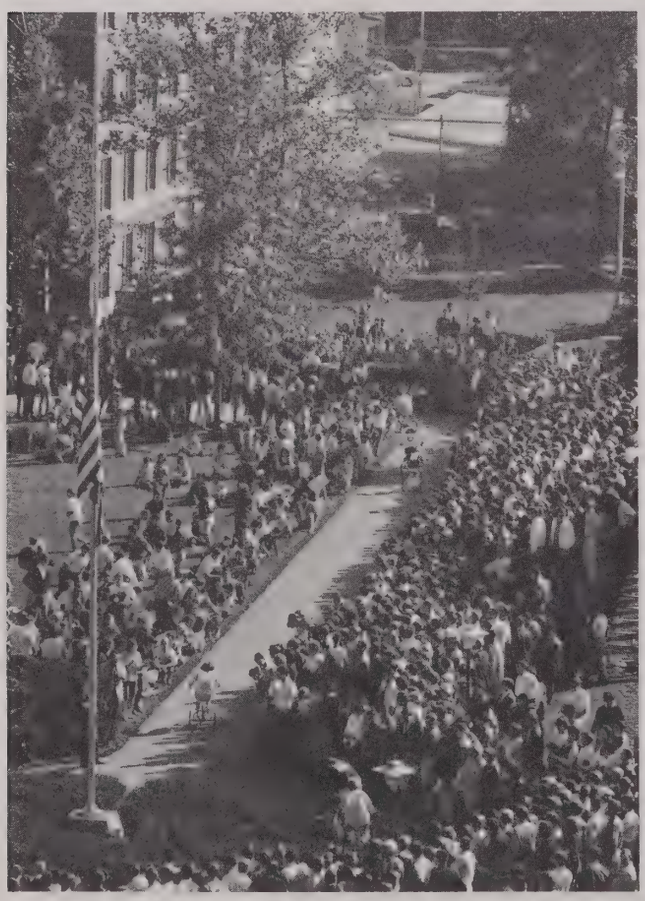
In the sorority and women's residence hall division of the tricycle race these three riders found themselves tangled together as they approached the finish line.

A large crowd of students surrounded the track and cheered for their favorite team as they passed by.



Members of the New Christy Minstrels found themselves signing autographs for people during the Midnight Breakfast which concluded Friday's Homecoming activities.

The first three place winners in the fraternity division and in the men's residence hall division competed in the final race of the afternoon for the overall men's championship trophy.

Three members of the New Christy Minstrels displayed their talent as they sang a trio number.

The 1966 ISU Homecoming was the Golden Anniversary celebration of this annual event. "Circus Holidays", the theme for the traditional Blue and White Parade, set a fast and colorful pace for the weekend of fun and frolic. Big name talent, dances, dinners, breakfasts, tricycle derby, parades, and the football game combined to make this year's Homecoming the best ever!

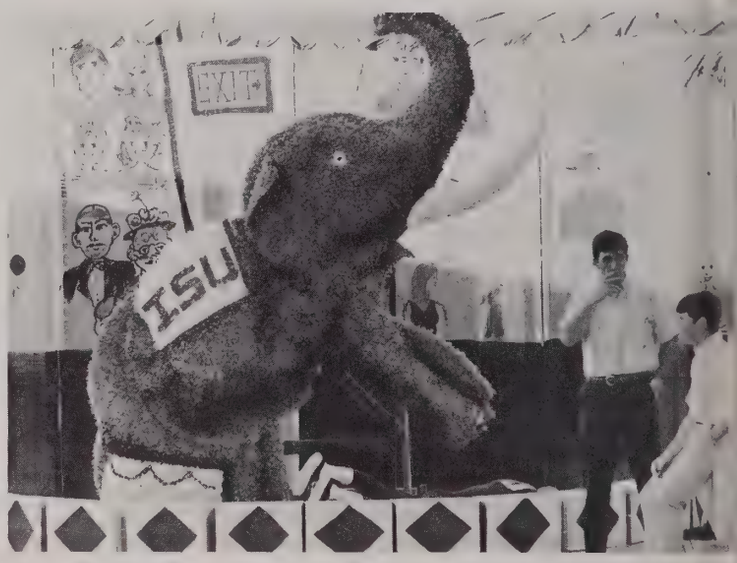
One of the New Christy Minstrels entertained the Homecoming audience.

The ISU Booster Buttons which the students purchased not only bolstered school spirit but also served as the students' ticket for several Homecoming activities.

Reeve Hall, like all the other dorms on campus, joined in the spirit of "Circus Holidays" with their enormous outside display.

The ISU campus was swarmed with busy students as each residence hall worked hard to put up their respective displays.

Blumberg and Cromwell Halls used the theme "ISU Stomp those Pumas" to stamp out all other competition and capture first place in the dorm decorations division.



These high-steppers were only one out of many high school bands that preformed in the 1966 ISU Homecoming Parade.

Chi Omega's Homecoming float, "No Lion, ISU Will Merrily Go Round and Seal Up St. Joe," took top honors in the sorority and Sweepstakes divisions.

The judges voted thumbs up as Sigma Eta Phi won first place in the General Division with "Thumbs Down to the Pumas."

The men of Gillum Hall pulled their float, "Sycamores Fly, Pumas Die," to triumph in the residence hall division.

Sigma Phi Epsilon captured a first place trophy in the fraternity division for their float "Cage the Pumas."

The traditional Homecoming bonfire aroused school spirit and enthusiasm Friday night before the battle with St. Joe.

State players downed a St. Joe's player during an important play in the Homecoming game then ISU went on to win 19—0.

The ISU cheerleaders showed pep and enthusiasm as they led the crowd in boosting the Sycamores to victory.

President Rankin and his wife turned out to make the crowd the largest ever to attend a Homecoming football game.

Destruction was all that remained of most of the floats as vandals turned many months of hard work into ruin.

Donna Carrico and Rosie Schroeder accepted the Sweepstakes trophy for Chi Omega's winning float.

Dee Goodnight joined in dancing at the annual Blue and White Dance, "Under the Big Top," which completed the week-end's activities.

"Greek Hysteria" Proved a Huge Success

On Sunday evening the Torchlight Parade and the lighting of the ISU torch signaled the beginning of the fun-filled week of Greek festivities.

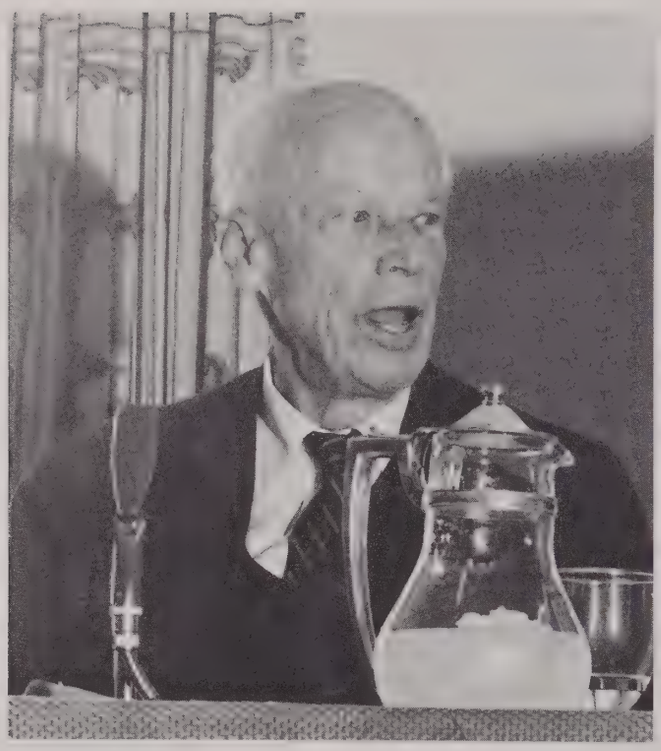
Delegates from each sorority and fraternity were entertained by fellow Greeks for the exchange dinner and dessert at the fraternity houses and sorority suites respectively.

Richard Ristine, former Lt. Governor of Indiana, spoke at the Greek Banquet about his views on Greek life and his experiences as a Greek during his undergraduate years.

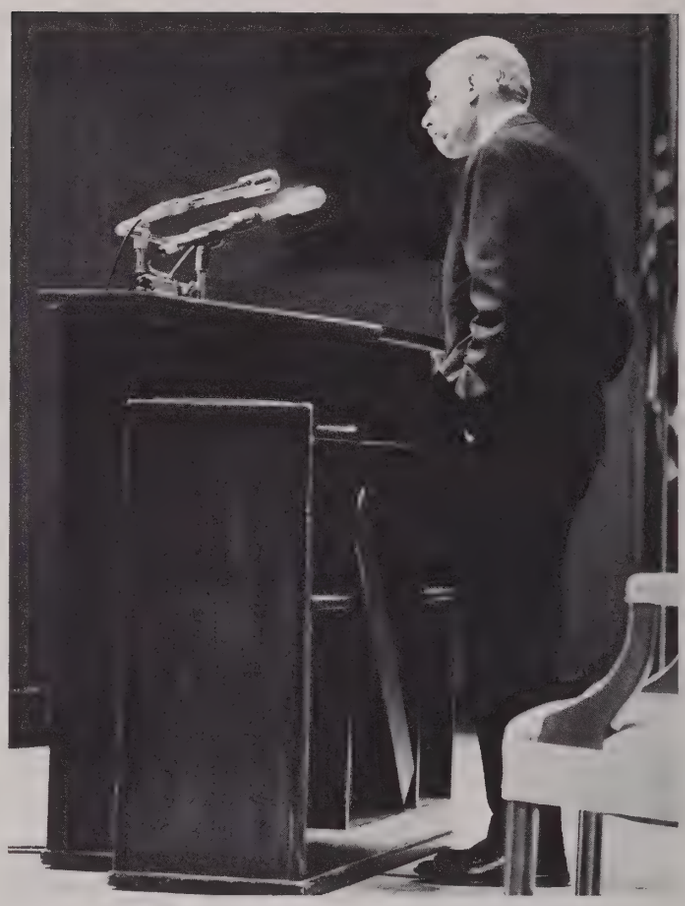
Fraternities and sororities tried their luck at shinnying up the grease pole in the Greek Games.

With fraternities pulling and sororities riding, the bed race was nothing less than thrilling for the participants as well as the audience all the way to the finish line.

Last year the Greeks of ISU under the sponsorship of IFC and Panhellenic held their first Greek Week. The purpose of Greek Week was to bring together the Greeks in non-competitive activities and to interest other students in Greek life. The week began with a non-denominational church service and torchlight parade, followed by the Greek Banquet. The Greeks participated in exchange dinners, a pep rally, and the Greek Games. Greek Week was culminated by the Greek Hysteria Dance.



Norman Thomas, perennial candidate for President, aired his views on Socialism as a guest speaker at ISU last year.



Noted author, newsman, and Pulitzer Prize Winner Harrison Salisbury reported on foreign relations.

Indiana State's convocation series proved to be one of the most outstanding in the University's history. The programs last year involved a heterogeneous assortment of cultural activities including a piano concert by the twin piano team of Ferrante and Teicher, a pre-election speech by ex-Vice President Richard Nixon, and lectures by noted authors such as Erskine Caldwell, Cleveland Amory, and Harrison Salisbury. These convocations were open to faculty and students as well as to the general public.

Excerpts from Broadway were included on the program by the Strolling Players Quintet ranging from the Greek Classics to 1965's Theatre of the Absurd.

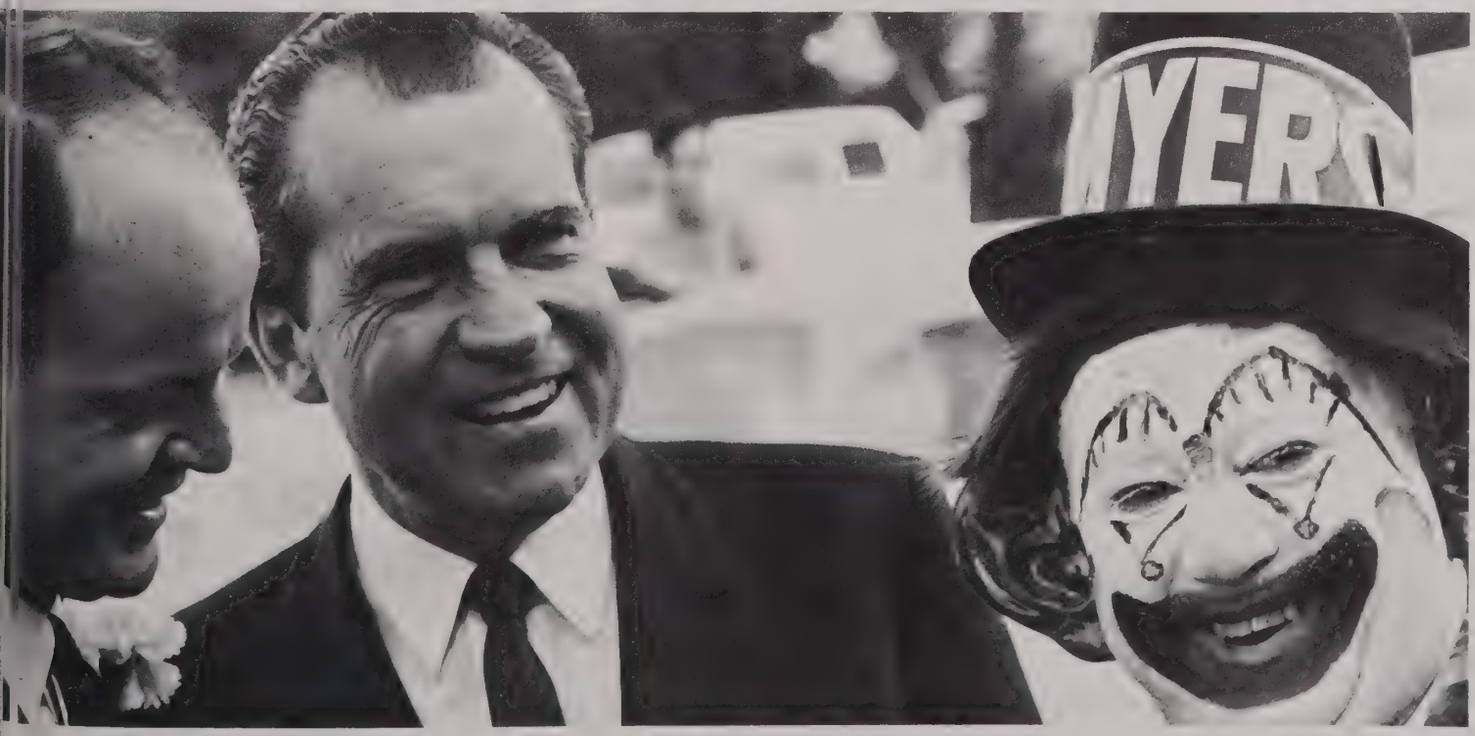
A Strolling Player paused during a dramatic reading in the convocation program, "Three Bonds and a Passion."

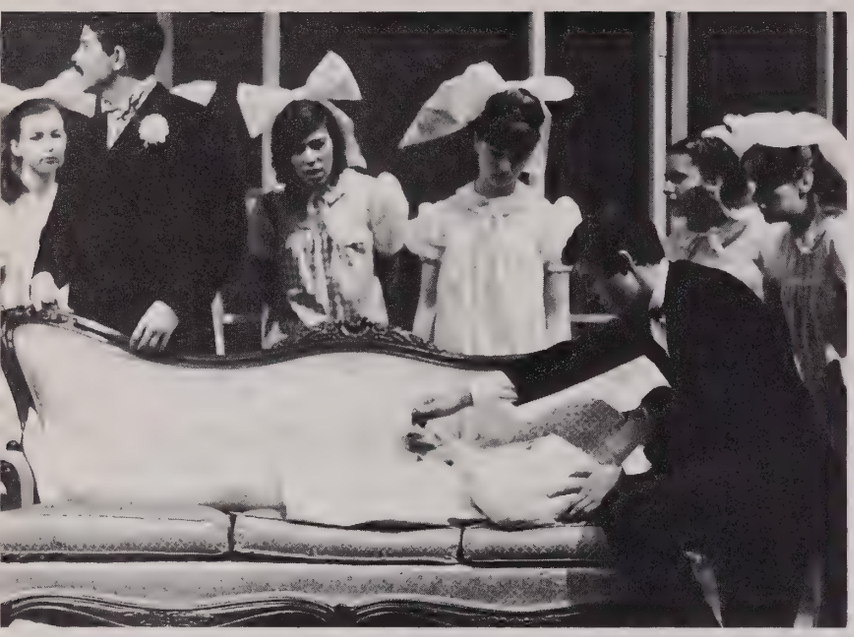
Convo Series Stimulated Cultural Interest

Direct from a 300 performance run, Hans Conried presented excerpts from "Generation" with his touring company.

The Spring convocation season boasted Jerome Hires, Metropolitan Opera and Boss soloist.

Former Vice President Richard Nixon was in Terre Haute last year campaigning for John T. Meyer, Republican candidate for the new seventh Congressional District in Indiana.





Concern was shown on the faces of all as the Inspector tried to reawaken Armande to the beauties of life in Sycamore Players first production, "The Enchanted".

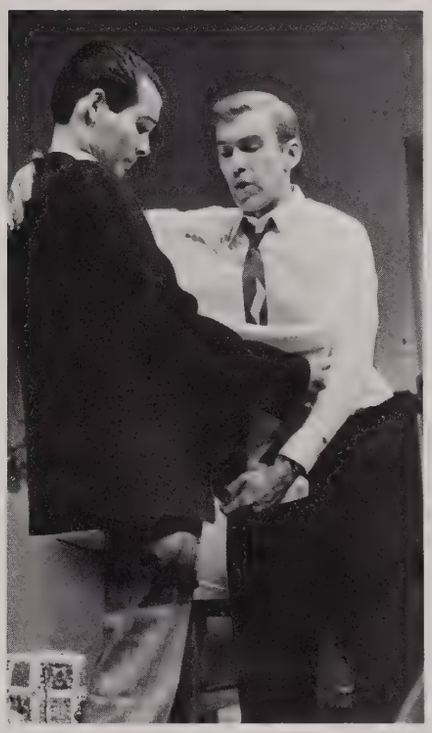
Directing and backstage technical work proved as engrossing and interesting to the members of Sycamore Players as the actual on-stage performing.

Sycamore Players Portrayed Varieties of Life

Carlos Gorostiza, author, writer, and professor of Spanish at ISU, greeted members of the audience at the North American premiere of his new play, "Neighbors."

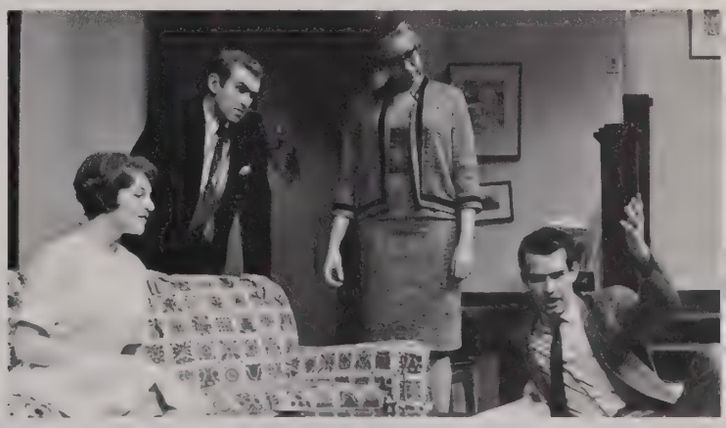
Rehearsals offered an opportunity for the Sycamore Players to engage in deep discussions of the latest theater news.

Watching a murder take place before their eyes and yet refusing to help, the cast of "Neighbors" portrayed man's disinvolvement with his fellow man.



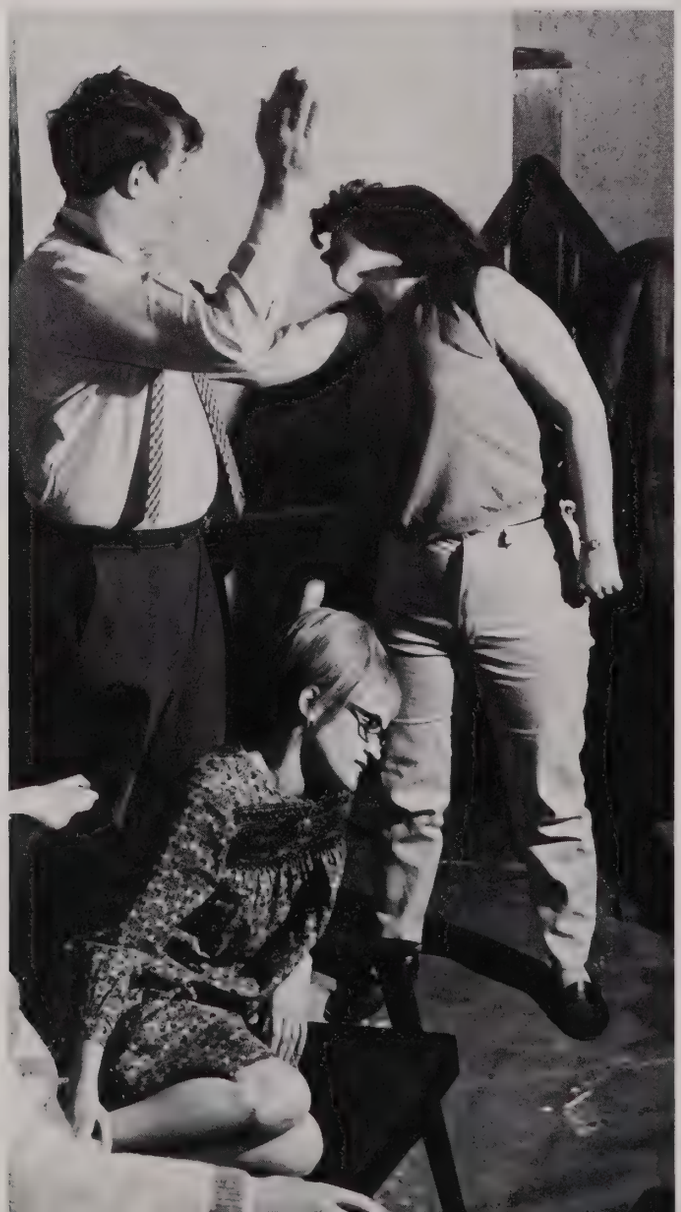
These Indiana State University Sycamore Players conversed happily during the revised spring production of "Never Too Late."

In the family home of "Never Too Late" the mayor discussed plans for the proposed highway which would have an effect on the entire family.



The satire, "Beyond the Fringe," was given with proceeds going to the Joan Utterback Foundation.

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," was one of the many experimental plays produced by the theatre department.



The French play "No Exit" portrayed a modern view of hell, under the direction of Fred Byers of the ISU Theater.

The ISU Sycamore Players' productions ranged from the comedy of "Never Too Late," to the drama of "Hedda Gabler;" from the light French comedy of "The Enchanted," to the dramatic reality of American Society, poured forth in "Neighbors" by the famous Carlos Gorostisto. Three children's plays were also performed for the enjoyment of youngsters of the community. The productions were open to all and the appeal extended to everyone.

Actors from outside ISU's theatre performed in summer plays such as "Front Page," the drama of a newspaper reporter.

A New York comedy, "Charlie's Aunt," provided entertainment for summer school students and faculty.

A Roman comedy, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," was presented by ISU in Summer Stock.

Snow Enlivened the Yuletide

The residents of Reeve were "snowed in."

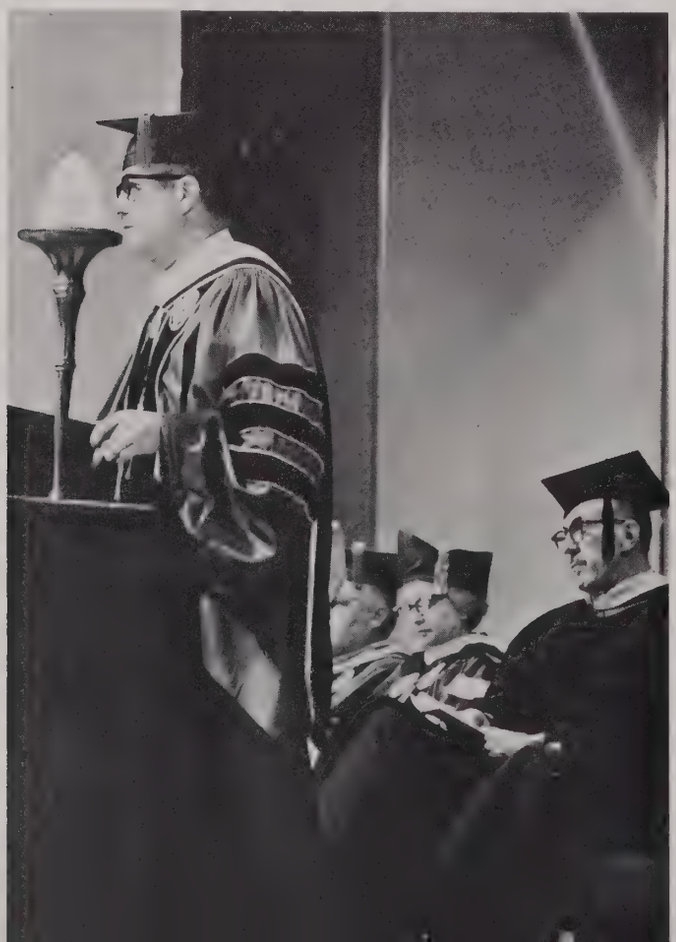
Spirited carolers added a bit of Christmas cheer outside the dorms.

A traditional Yuletide Christmas tree adorning the Union Building receives the finishing touches.

Hines Highlighted Founders Day Ceremonies

Neil Hines gave the Founders Day Address and presented a glimpse of his father's life as fourth president of ISU.

A deep feeling of tradition and nostalgia was felt by all as Dr. Rankin concluded this Founder's Day ceremony.



The 97 annual Founders Day Program was highlighted by the address given by Neal O. Hines. The traditional book and torch ceremony was initiated by Dr. B. C. Anthis, President of the Alumni Association and David A. Teany, 1967 Class President. Other parts of the activity consisted of the dedication and ribbon cutting ceremony of the new Residence Halls, Jones and Hines.

Ideal Sorority Women: M. Jones, Zeta Tau Alpha; J. Prox, Chi Omega; J. Downing, Gamma Phi Beta; K. Davis, Delta Gamma; S. Flanigan, Alpha Xi Delta; L. Busart, Alpha Sigma Alpha; F. McCracken, Alpha Phi; B. Demski, Alpha Omicron Pi.

Panhellenic Honored Ideal Sorority Women

President Rankin and Dean Thompson whirled about the floor during the Crystal Ball.

"Ye Old English Inn" was the setting for this year's Crystal Ball. The Panhellenic Crystal Ball was attended by ISU sorority women and their dates. The honoring of the ideal sorority woman of each sorority highlighted the evening.

Crystal Ball Committee: J. Sednek, J. Schmidt, S. Dauberman, S. Knapp, L. Blood, P. Dubie, S. Neeley.

Top Hat and Page One Headed Co-ed Weekend

The Top Hat Club was not complete until the beat of the band inspired everyone to try his own version of today's dances.

The novelty of a live floor show captured the attention of couples attending Top Hat.

Sponsored by the Union Board, the Top Hat Club provided a nightclub atmosphere for the students of ISU. A Floor show, dance and a Gambling Casino provided the entertainment to make this year's Top Hat Club something to tip your hat at.

Many looked on while others gambled; however they did not lose for everyone won at the Top Hat Club by having fun.

ISU couples attending the Page One Ball sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi thoroughly enjoyed the music of the Symphonic Orchestra.

Mrs. Ralph Tirey led the Page One Ball activities by crowning Carolyn Willis, Gamma Phi Beta, as Miss Page One.

Tau Kappa Epsilon won with their roaring skit, "The Peacock Club."

1967 Campus Revue Supported Good Tradition

Continuing the fine tradition of an enjoyable show, the Greeks devoted much time and effort to this year's Campus Revue. Capturing first place trophies were the Gamma Phi's and the TKE's who also received the choreography award. "Life is a Ball" by the AOPi's took second place and was awarded the Vern Dyer Award. Director of the ATO's, Tom Venable, was nominated as Best Director while the DG's "Space Fantasia" captured Best Costumes trophy.

Third place was awarded to Alpha Phi's for their interpretation of life.

"The Great Society" portrayed by the Pi Lam's received third place.

"Life is a Ball" was the theme of the bouncy AOPi's second place skit.

Providing delightful commentary, Jim Underwood acted as the event's Master of Ceremonies.

The story of "The Bargain" won third place for the devilish Sig Ep's.

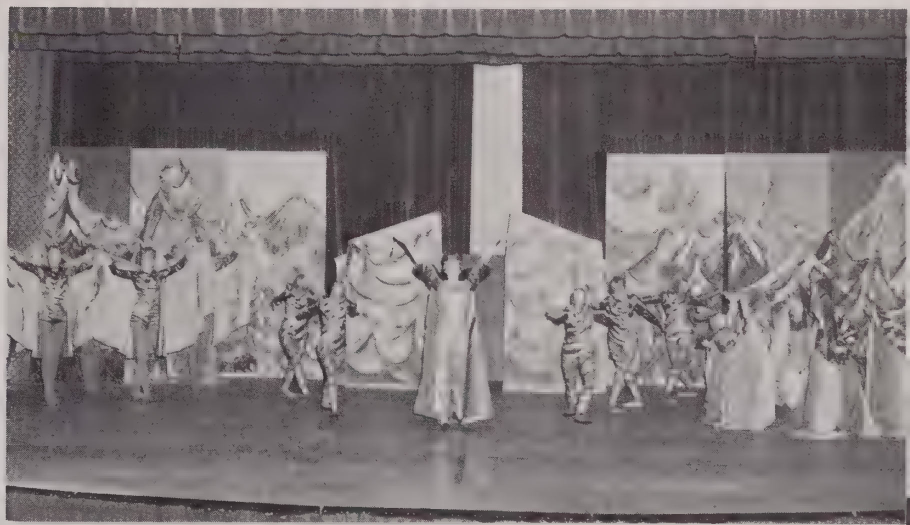
Many weeks of practice won for Gamma Phi Beta a first place sorority trophy.

Many hours of teamwork and patience were essential to stage preparation.

In the early spring eight sororities and six fraternities of Indiana State University presented the 34th Annual Campus Revue. Jim Underwood, master of ceremonies provided unique commentaries during the show. Acting as Ushers and Usherettes were the Sigma Pi's and the Alpha Xi's.

The Sig Ep's captured best sets with their "Come to Hell" theme.

Best Director Award was conferred upon Tom Venable, director of Alpha Tau Omega's "One Day In Old Fall River."



The DG's "fantastic" costumes won the Best Costumes Award.

POLICY BOARD: S. Tucker, D. Scheick, N. Orrill, B. Felts, P. Light, Dean Miles, Advisor; D. Thayer, C. Marcum, Co-Directors.

Excitement of the evening was climaxed by the announcement of Steve Dolbow, TKE, as the ISU Bachelor of the Year, 1966-67.

1967 Bachelor Honored at Club Bamboo

The evening festivities were further enhanced by the exotic Polynesian talent displayed by native dancers.

ISU Go-Go dancers exhibited entertaining dance combinations that helped insure the success of the Bamboo Club.

The second annual Club Bamboo proved to be a tremendous success again this year. The Polynesian atmosphere was enhanced by palm trees, draped fish netting, and a fire dance, as couples joined on the dance floor to the music of the Makahas. Climaxing many weeks of vigorous campaigning, Steve Dalbow was presented as 1966-67 Bachelor of the Year.

Stompers Stomped at "Father's Moustache"

Undoubtedly, "living it up" was all part of the fun as ISU students relished the near beer in the delightful "Mug and Ale" atmosphere of the 1966 Your Father's Moustache.

The Dixieland band, checkered table cloths, peanut shells, and near beer set the pace for "Your Father's Moustache." The nationally famous Village Stompers led both faculty and students in a roaring evening. Charlie Chaplin silent movies added a unique touch to the Dixieland beat.

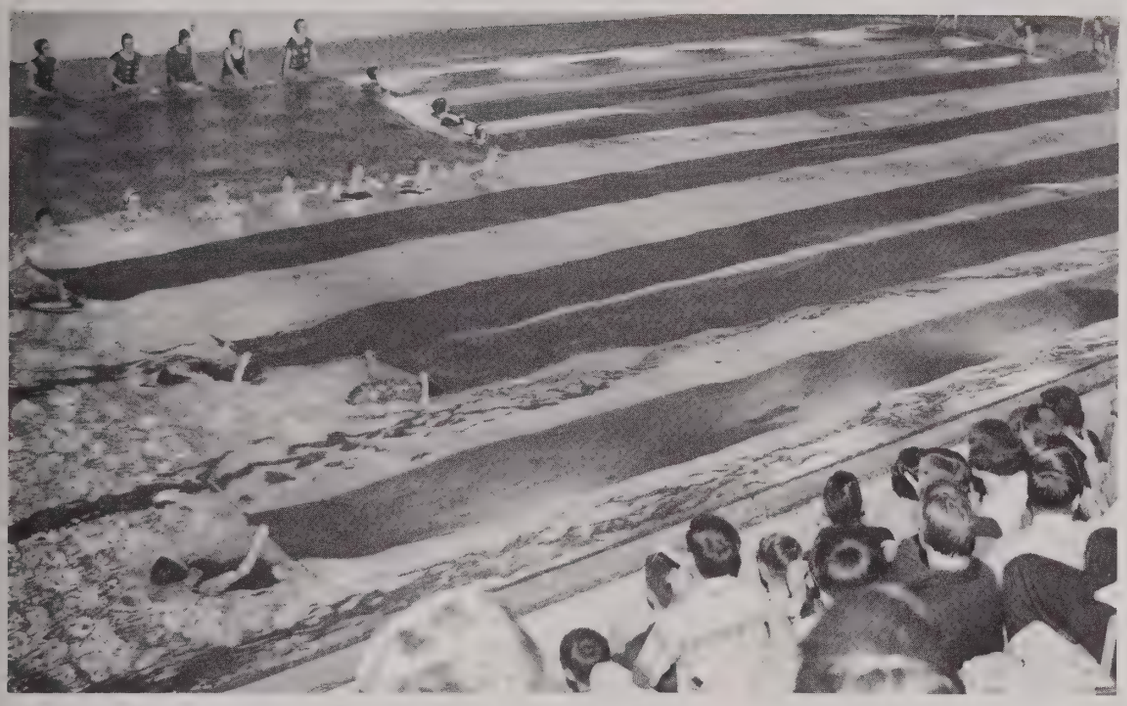
Fine Arts Festival Exhibited Creativity

An art student captured the mood of the Fine Arts Festival as he sketched the "Kiosk".

A warm welcome was extended by Jackie Stohr, Fine Arts Festival Chairman.

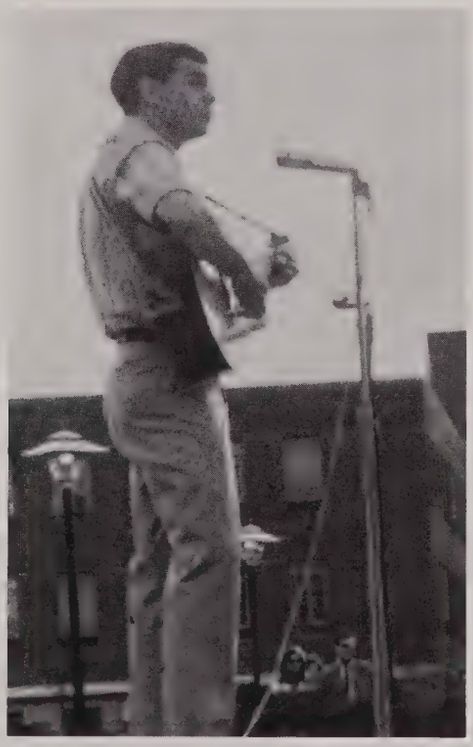
Open air silent movies featured "Five Keystone Comedies with Charlie Chaplin."

A folksing was performed by the "grandaddy of folksinging" John Jacob Niles.



The ISU Dolphin Club carried out the theme, "O'Fish'al Business," as they displayed a splashing spectacular performance in the water show for Fine Arts Festival.

ISU's Rod Bradfield, who appeared in Greenwich Village, entertained on the Quad by singing a few of his self-composed songs.



One-half of The Strangers, Greg, sings some of his own songs while Richard, the other half, takes a break.

The Small Brothers, added their names to the list of folksingers.

For a couple of "Greenback Dollars" one was able to see the Kingston Trio at the ISU Arena sing selected numbers from their nationally famous record album.

"Something For All" might easily have been the theme of the Fine Arts Festival. There were numerous activities in the fields of art, music, literature, drama, and dance. Prepared months in advance by students, the Fine Arts Festival was a creative, original, and exciting example of ISU ability.

Famous in cities around the country, "Your Fathers Mustache" enacted a nightclub featuring the Mustache Stompers.

The Strangers were just one of the many groups which added to the originality of the festival by their singing.

The "Village Internationale" included the Bookstore where items from the nationalities represented could be purchased.

The "Village Internationale," depicting various languages, featured the French, German, Latin, and Spanish Clubs.

The student art exhibit was composed of creative and colorful oil paintings, water colors, sculptures, crafts, and graphics.

The Sycamore Playhouse was responsible for enacting various plays, symbolizing the field of drama.

"Parade of Princesses" Opened the Pageant

Tension mounted as last adjustments were made before appearing on stage.

The finalists awaited the decision of the judges after spontaneously answering the question pertaining to women's occupational position as affected by the civil rights bill.

The 1966 Miss ISU pageant began with the "Parade of Princesses" as each contestant passed through the ivory archway.

Patsy Tryon, chairman of the 1966 Miss ISU Pageant, served as mistress of ceremonies.

The crowning of Diane Maxwell as Miss ISU 1966 by the retiring Miss ISU, Susan Black, culminated one of the most beautiful and exciting pageants ever at Indiana State University. Diane, a Frankfort Sophomore, majoring in choral music, was chosen from among fifty-seven entrants.

With her title the blue-eyed blond received a scholarship from the Pepsi-Cola Company, numerous gifts from various Terre Haute merchants, and the honor of traveling to Michigan City to represent Indiana State University in the Miss Indiana Pageant.

Diane Maxwell, the new Miss ISU, received congratulations from Patsy Tryon.

Diane Maxwell, talent award winner, presented tunes from "Mary Poppins."

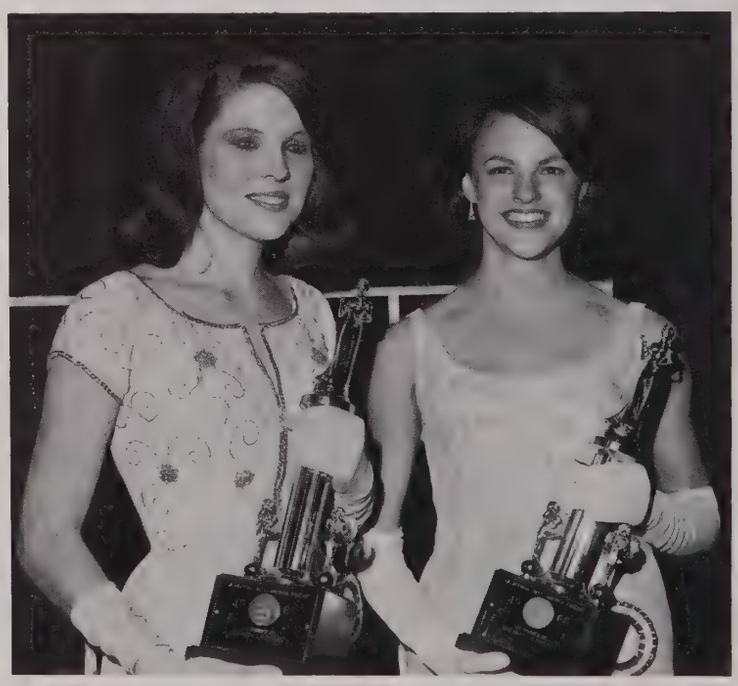
Angela Kolle was recipient of the trophy in the swimsuit competition.

The pageant reached its climax when Susan Black, the 1965 Miss ISU, relinquished her title to Diane Maxwell.

As Diane Maxwell walked down the runway she began her reign as the 1966 Miss ISU.

A highlight of the evening was the selection of Miss Congeniality, Judy Riba, who was chosen for this award by the contestants.

Before the crowning of the new Miss ISU, first and second place runners-up were announced. Chosen for these awards were Angela Kolle and Linda Binford, respectively.



Queen Highlighted "Moonlight and Magnolias"

Queen Patsy Tryon and her court, J. Downing, R. A. Fitzgerald, S. Woodward, and B. Pudlo, reigned over the 1966 Junior Prom.

Patsy Tryon, selected Junior Prom Queen from twelve candidates, was crowned by President Alan Rankin.

Couples danced to the music of Si Zentner and his band in the Arena which was decorated in the theme of "Moonlight and Magnolias".

Gathered around the decorated refreshment tables, the couples served themselves punch and cookies.

Four Divisions Attained Honors in Songfest

In the sorority division, "Flower of Dreams" captured first place for the Zeta Tau Alphas.

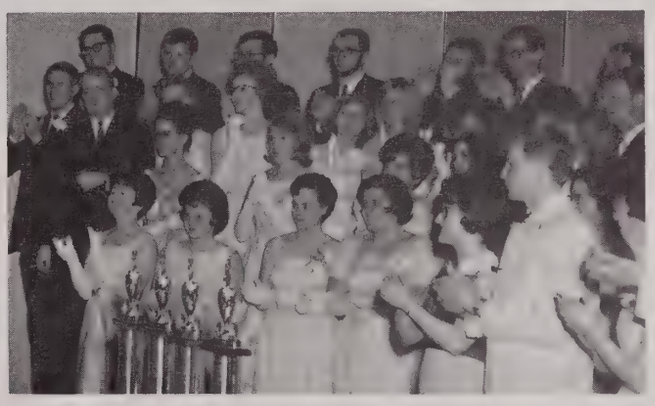
"I Ain't Down Yet" sang the Sig Eps as they downed all others in the fraternity division.

This year twenty-four groups, composed of men and women, Fraternity and General, battled for honors in the thirteenth annual songfest. The songfest, instituted by the former President and Mrs. Tirey in 1937, was originally sponsored by the College Tri Club under the direction of Charlotte S. Burford, former Dean of Women. In recent years, due to the inactiveness of the College Tri, this event has been sponsored by the two professional music fraternities, Sigma Alpha Iota and Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia.

Mrs. Ralph N. Tirey presented John Erickson with the Ruth Hill Tirey award for outstanding director.

Burford Hall, in the women's general division, triumphed with "No Man Is an Island."

POLICY BOARD: J. Norris, P. Cook, S. Elkin, Mrs. R. Tirey, W. Gilbert, H. Matlock, J. Cobley, R. Ewick.



Mass choir provided entertainment during the judging.

All groups were defeated by Gillum Hall in the Men's General Division.

Journalistic Honors Given at Gridiron Banquet

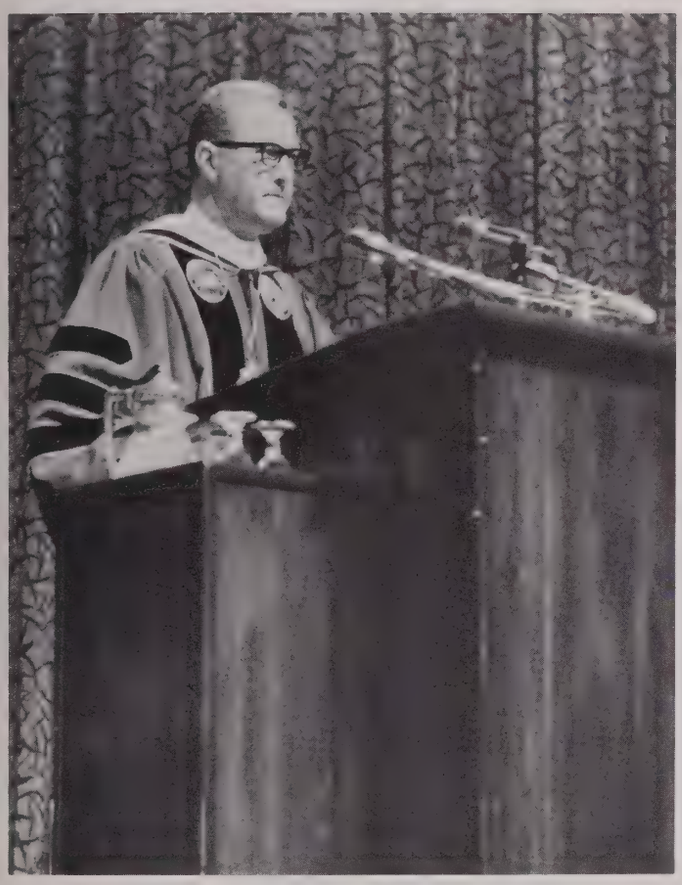
Members of Sigma Delta Chi, the oldest, largest, and most select organization serving the field of journalism, relaxed after a dinner following the pledging ceremonies.

President Alan C. Rankin and guest speaker, Mr. Ted Koop, vice president of C.B.S. discussed new trends in journalism and their developments at ISU.

The professional journalistic society took time out for a picture after the presentation of Outstanding Senior Journalist, Educator of the Year, and Man of the Year.

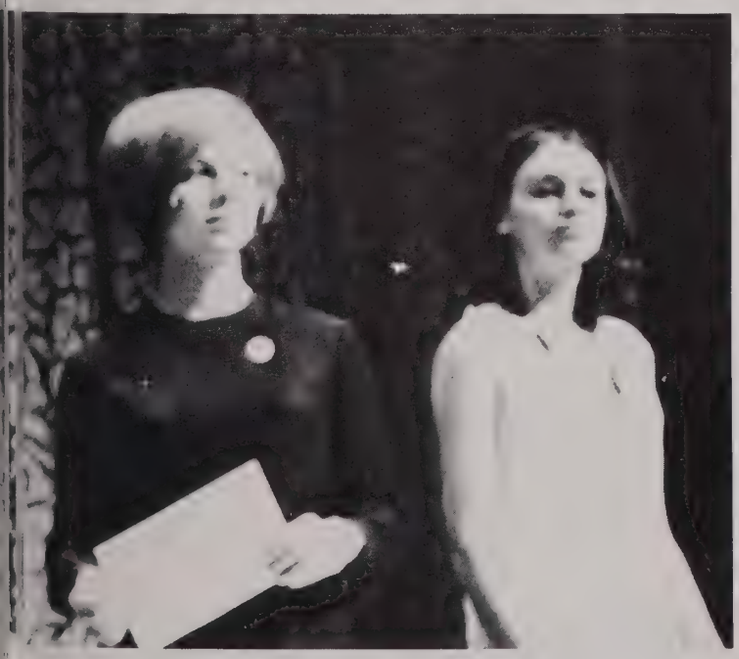
President Rankin held the interest of Ted Koop, Harold Spicer, and Phil Brassie.

Honor Day Awards Presented to 100 Students



President Alan C. Rankin presided at the annual Honor Day ceremonies and presented awards to deserving students.

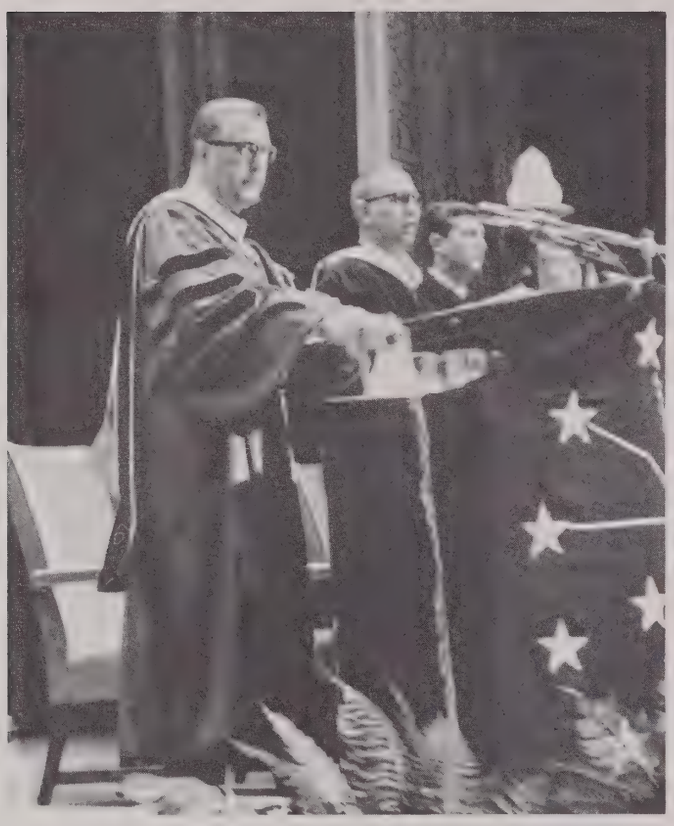
Co-chairmen, Betsey Wood and Karen Binford, organized the program for the Honor Day Convocation.



President Rankin presented Roberta Cripe with the Pamarista Outstanding Freshman Woman Award.

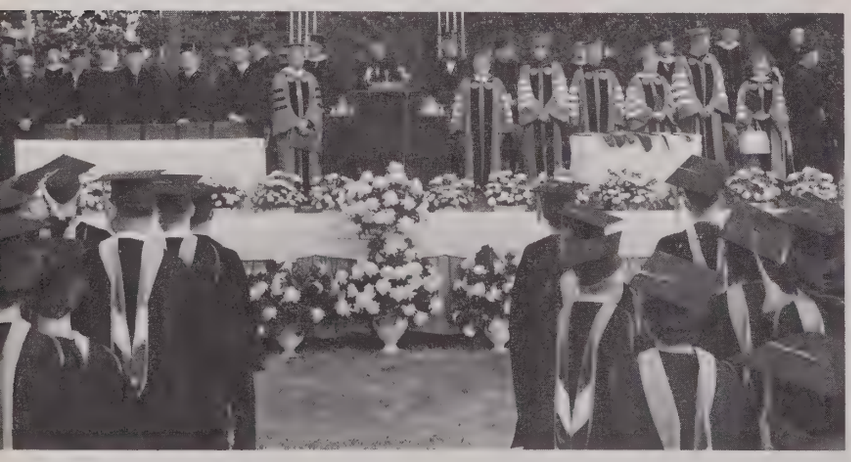
The outstanding individual has possessed a pleasant personality, has strived for excellence in all his undertakings, and has done above-average work. Deserving ISU students, who worked incessantly throughout the year, were honored for their achievements at the annual Honor Day Convocation held in May by being presented with departmental, collegiate, and community awards.

Commencement Marked the End of the Beginning



President Alan Rankin's passages from the Scriptures sharpened the graduate's awareness of the ever present challenge.

The Administration, faculty, and guests gathered on the platform to confer the hard earned degrees upon the graduates.



William Tapley Bennett, Jr., United States Ambassador to Portugal, delivered the commencement address to the graduating class of 1966.

So it has gone year by year—always the same—yet a little different. As each graduating class left the familiarity of ISU for the uncertainty of the future, it has been with mixed emotions; warm memories of years past, relief at the end of study and tension filled hours, and hope of fulfilling life-long dreams.

Not only in the limelight on Commencement day were the graduates but also the faculty and administrators who made it all possible.

A sea of black emerged from the Commencement assembly as each graduate, like a tiny wave, had prepared to contribute his part, however small, to the whole.

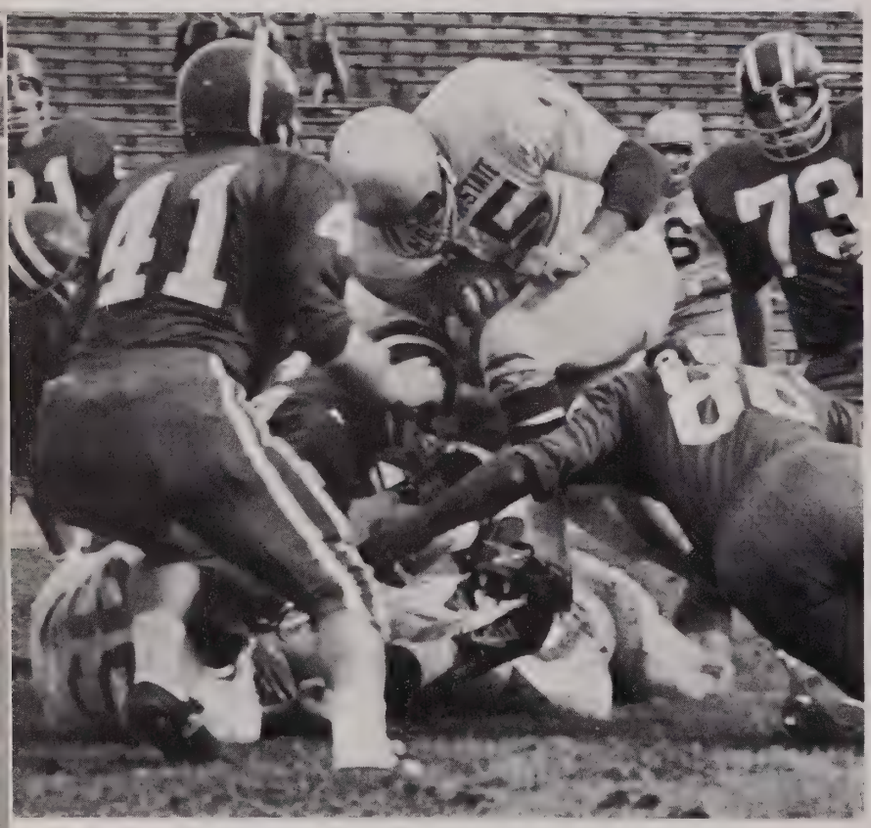
These Indiana State University gridders took a few minutes rest as they prepared to meet Illinois State.

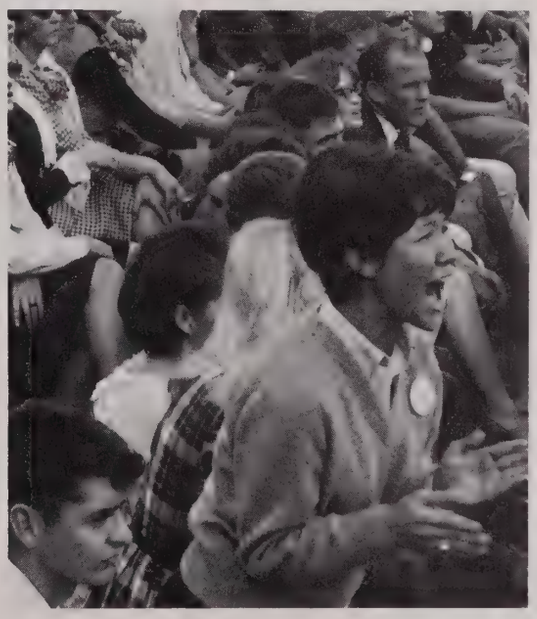
Three Evansville defensive men fought hard to down Indiana State's tough ball carrier, Randy Lincoln.

Number 64 for Indiana State throws a good block enabling his teammate to get through on a clean sweep.

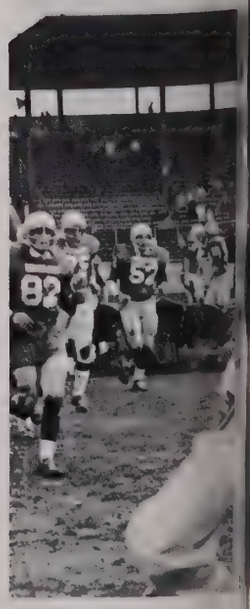
These expressions imply the tense moments often experienced during the close seconds preceding a touchdown.



The Indiana State gridders had a good season with six wins, four of which were in the conference; and two losses, both in the conference. This placed them in a second place tie in the Indiana Collegiate Conference. Highlighting the season was the Homecoming victory over St. Joseph's of Renssalaer and the 10 point deficit at half-time that ISU overcame to defeat Valparaiso at their Homecoming 19—16.



Indiana State's Sycamores fought to recover a fumble during a tense game.



State's remarkable headcoach Jerry Huntsman, was named coach-of-the-year in the ICC, bringing his career record to an impressive 35 wins and 5 losses. During the season, Coach Huntsman, found that he had a good strong sophomore offensive line spearheaded by Ron Overton and Randy Payne. Overton became ISU's mainstay as he topped all Indiana Colleges in touchdown passes, 15, even topping Purdue's Bob Griese. ISU's football team also found that four of its outstanding gridders were nominated to the All-ICC; placing seniors John Truitt and Bob Pychinka for their second year, also senior Joe Fiedler for his first and State's famed pass receiver sophomore Randy Payne.

As Fred Pietrzak approached the finish line he took another first place marker for Indiana State.

Although they faced some rough competition, ISU's cross country team experienced a winning season. In the NCAA meet, ISU placed eleventh in a field of forty-three teams. In the Big State meet the Sycamores came in sixth and in the Little State, fourth. To add to this list of accomplishments State nabbed third place in the ICC. Outstanding in this year's season were the times recorded by the cross country men. Five boys ran four miles in less than twenty minutes. This helped State to accumulate the low scores that were necessary for a successful season.

Precedents Set Along Cager's Victory Route

Indiana State University's famed Basketball Coach Duane Kleuh, was often seen jumping from his seat yelling encouragement to his champion team.

Basketball 1966-67 spelled out many firsts for ISU. Among the precedents set were the double defeats of Evansville and Butler. In addition ISU hosted their first NCAA small college regional. Coach Duane Kleuh commented that "this year's Indiana State basketball team was one of the best, if not the best, in the school's history. The team had fine leadership from the seniors and all 13 players gave us the team effort needed to compile such a fine record."

In the thrilling Evansville game, Rick Mason dunked the ball and chalked up two more points for ISU.

Outstanding highlights of this year's season were Indiana State's victories over the Evansville Aces. The first game was a last second thriller with State tieing the score at 96 all at the end of regulation play. In the overtime State came from a 6 point deficit to win by one point 101—100, against the old Evansville College. Then as the new University of Evansville, State handed them their first track loss in a tilt at the ISU Arena, 86—84.

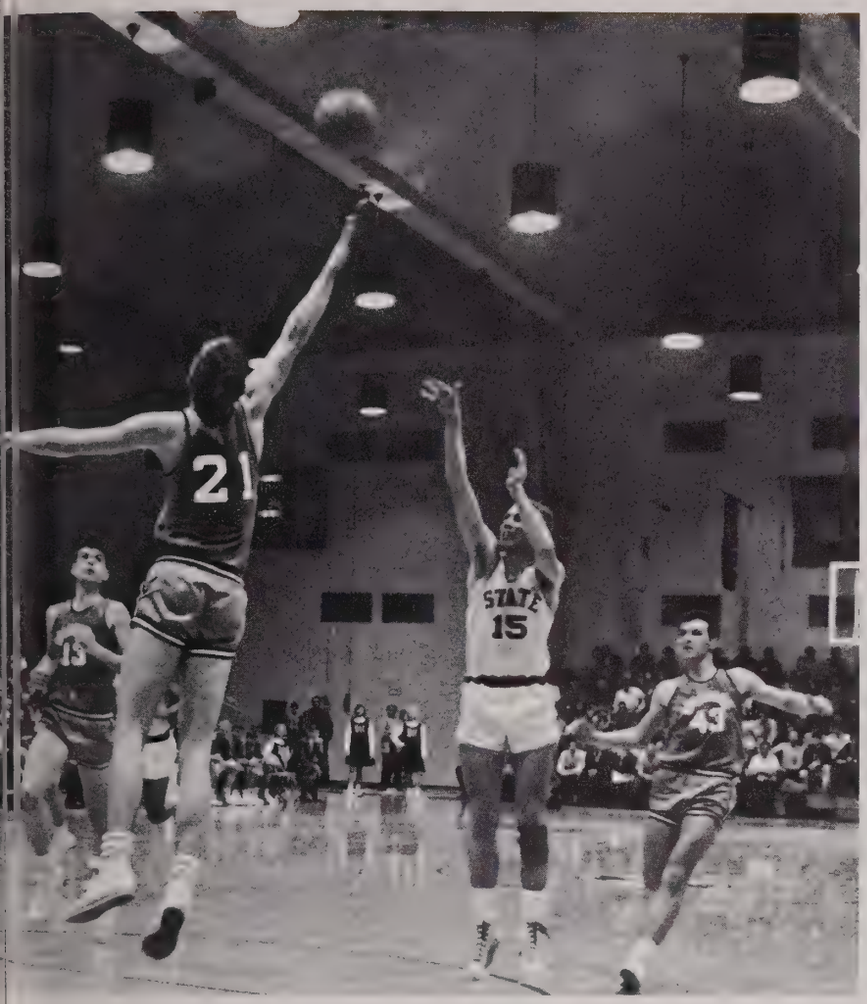
Sycamore Senior Butch Wade jumped and stretched to grab a rebound as his Stout State guard struggled also to reach it.

As a sophomore, "Butch" Wade was named to the All-Conference team and was also selected as a UPI All-American. The 6'4" forward was the team's leading scorer as a sophomore and throughout his collegiate career averaged well over 20 points per game. Jim Crone moved into a starting berth his junior year and responded with a 12.5 scoring average. With his speed and fine outside shooting, the 5'10" guard proved to be a key factor in ISU's fast breaks and running game. Speedster Rich Edgerton was not only one of the most accurate shooters on the team but usually had the toughest defensive assignment in the backcourt. His fine playmaking qualities account for the fact that the 5'11" guard has led the team in assists.



Senior Jim Crone took aim and shot to make another bucket for ISU as the Spartans looked on in dismay.

ISU Tankmen Win Again

1966-67's Varsity Swim Team finished this year with one of Indiana State University's winning Season. Coach Duane Barrows was satisfied with the team's performance as the tankmen placed second in the Indiana Collegiate Conference at the end of regular season play. This year started with 4 returning lettermen and good depth of sophomores. Larry Dalton, the team's only senior was the Sycamore's backbone, pacing this as he did last where he placed 2nd in the 100 yard freestyle and 6th in the 200 yard freestyle in the NCAA national finals in Long Beach, California. Coach Barrows said he is looking forward to another successful season with a good strong junior and sophomore team to back him.

Mike Phillips paced the Sycamores with a .429 batting average which was second in the conference. Drew Thomas proved to be the most successful pitcher in the circuit, sporting a 4—0 record. As a team, State displayed its speed and agility by leading the league in stolen bases and team fielding. Randy Miller, Bob Warren and Drew Thomas were named to the All-ICC team, while Alan Buell, John Smith, Mike Phillip, Mike Harlan, and Steve Hollenbeck received honorable mention in the Conference. Gymnasts Received Good Freshmen Backing

This ISU gymnast endeavors to hold his form on the parallel bars as the judges evaluate his style.

Indiana State's gymnasts ended this year's season with 6 wins and 10 losses and with only 4 seniors participating. Coach Council said, "We had quite a tough schedule playing such schools as University of Illinois, Southern Illinois, NCAA champions, and Indiana University. Our main problem was the lack of depth in each class." Coach Council also cited Tom Hadley captain, Bob Conner, Ted Fredericks and Bob Rees, all seniors, as the team's main strength. Coach Council said he is looking forward to a good team from this year's freshmen crop. State's outstanding freshmen, who beat U of I's frosh team, will be challenged by an even tougher schedule for next year.

Track Team Placed Second in ICC

Despite a lack of depth, ISU's trackmen compiled a respectable 3—3 dual meet record. In addition the team placed second in both the ICC and Little State meets and finished fourth in the Big State meet. Miler Larry Andrews and intermediate hurdler Jim Gurnell captured firsts in the conference meet while Mike Hanna won the pole vault competition. In the Little State meet, Woodrow Kelley and Gary Rickard crossed the finish line first in the 440 yard dash and the high hurdles respectively. Sycamore Pat Nixon placed all high jumpers in the Big State meet. The freshman team, which established two ICC meet records, will provide back-up strength next year.

High jumper Pat Nixon easily cleared the cross bar during a typical spring session.

Terry Busby practiced to perfect his jump for the meet against Butler University.

Despite an 8—8 record, the tennis team experienced one of its finest seasons last spring. The difficulty in gaining a more impressive record was that the Sycamore netmen faced one of the toughest schedules yet. Coach Duane Klueh attributed the team's success to balance and strength. The high point of the tennis season occurred when ISU dealt Ball State one of its two losses all year with a 7—2 drubbing. Indicative of the team's fine performance was the capturing of third place in the Indiana Collegiate Conference.

The Men's Intramural Program at Indiana State University provided an excellent opportunity for athletic competition among the male students. This year a new program was initiated which produced more competitive University Play-Offs. This year there was intra-ball competition in each of the seven men's residence halls; the first, second, and third place teams of each dorm was placed into different classifications for the All Residence Hall Division honors. Fraternity teams also competed in a separate intramural division.

PERSONALITIES

Board Approved New Additions to Campus

BOARD OF TRUSTEES: Mr. J. Archer, Mr. W. Wilson, Miss M. Jessee, President A. Rankin, Dr. W. Crockett, Mr. D. Day, Jr., Mr. W. Kendall.

The seven-member Board of Trustees, acting as ISU's legal governing body, approved the 99-year lease of Terre Haute Memorial Stadium. The Board also approved the construction of a new science building addition which was on its way to completion, and two new residence halls, scheduled for completion in 1967. Other duties of the Board included the approval of the budget for the academic year, the sanctioning of all faculty appointments, and the granting of degrees. The Board worked without pay, serving as a bridge between the public and ISU.

Even though they worked without pay, the Board diligently discussed the university and other duties they would have to perform for the coming academic year.

Dr. Alan Rankin Began Reign as ISU President

President and Mrs. Rankin frequently visited the renovated Condit House.

A solemn president thoughtfully donned his inaugural robes.

Vitally interested in the campus well-being, ISU's new president often surveyed the University's progress made during his year of leadership.

A capricious president pedaled to the applause of race and Rankin enthusiasts.

As chief administrator of Indiana State University, President Alan Carson Rankin was responsible for the budget, desiring that the University provide the best education possible to students with the amount of money allotted. Taking an active interest in alumni affairs, he spoke before countless alumni groups. The president supported cultural matters and campus beautification. Believing the president's place was to be on campus near the students, he and his family moved into Condit House, former Alumni Center.

Vice-Presidents Head Auxiliary Offices

Vice-President and Acting Dean of the Faculty, Dr. Charles Hardaway, was in charge of instructional programs, staff, and closed-circuit television.

Two major advances made by the Vice-President and Acting Dean of the Faculty last year were the Co-ordinating Research Unit and the Freshman Opportunity Program. Special projects under his direction included the Honors Program, Faculty Bibliography, Faculty Bulletin, and Campus Calendar. The Vice-President and Treasurer had a major responsibility in managing institutional business and financial affairs. The newest development under his control was the non-academic personnel office. This year, under the guidance of the Vice-President of Student Affairs, the Student Counseling Center and the Student Activities Office were created. Coming also under his direction was the finished design of the new Student Health Center.

Vice-President of Student Affairs, Dr. John Truitt, handled the needs and problems of ISU students on a non-academic basis.

Vice-President and Treasurer, J. Kenneth Moulton, participated in planning physical facilities and in the development of long-range plans for general University development.

Faculty Council Served as Policy Makers

The Faculty Council had varied duties in its function as mediator between faculty and administration. It participated in formulating policies respecting curricula, selection of chief administrative officers of the university, budget, and those policies dealing with faculty salary, promotions, tenure, and academic freedom. The Faculty Council also supervised faculty elections, appointed various standing committees, and appointed faculty members of the administrative committees. This year the council was especially concerned with revising its constitution and with screening possible appointees to the office of Vice President and Dean of Faculty, which had an acting chairman.

Under the chairmanship of Dr. Robert Constantine, the Faculty Council served its function as a channel of communication between faculty and administration.

Student Personnel Services Were Enlarged

Dean John Truitt, directing the Student Personnel Services, served as the link between students and administration.

The Financial Aids Office aided students with loans, grants, scholarships, and part and full-time employment.

Student Personnel Services were enlarged to include a Counseling Center, the Registrar's Office, and a Student Activities Department, headed by Mrs. Risch, which was located in Tirey Memorial Union Building. The Financial Aids Department was newly located in the Administration Building. The Dean of Men, Dean of Women, Student Health Services, and the Admissions Office were all part of the facilities available to students through Student Personnel Services at ISU.

Student Health Services provided free medical care to all students of the University.

Dean of Men, Dr. Allan W. Rodgers, and Dean of Women, Miss Florence Thompson, solved student problems and organized student committees.

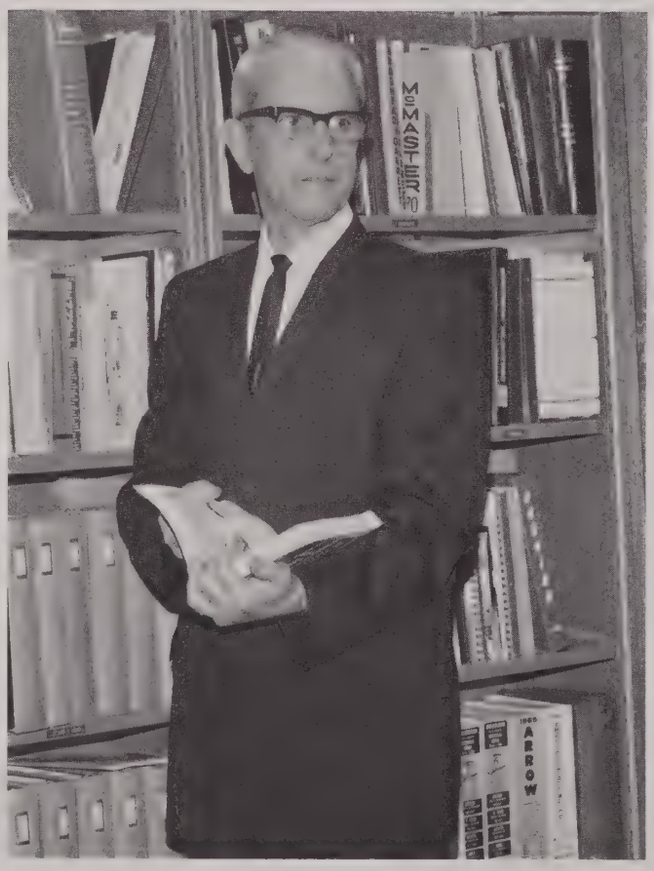
Mr. Paul Edgerton, Assistant Dean of Men, and Miss Betty Jo Hudson, Assistant Dean of Women, were in charge of Indiana State University's student housing.

Assistant Dean of Women, Miss Ann Eppert, and Assistant Dean of Men, Mr. Donald R. Mighell, advised campus groups.

Director of Housing, Mr. Cletis Shouse, managed all residence halls and student housing units at ISU.

Mr. Ralph Dinkle, Physical Plant director, maintained University operated buildings, grounds, and utilities.

Business Management Controlled Finances



Through the office of Director of Purchasing, Mr. Kenneth Black passed all purchase orders for equipment, supplies, and service for University facilities.

Mr. George Redfearn, director of Tirey Memorial Union, took care of general administration of the Union, directing the food service and planning activities with Union Board.

Mr. William Neihart, Mr. Richard Barton, Mr. Ralph Grutza, and Mr. Donald Hilt were involved in activities relating to the University's financial obligations.

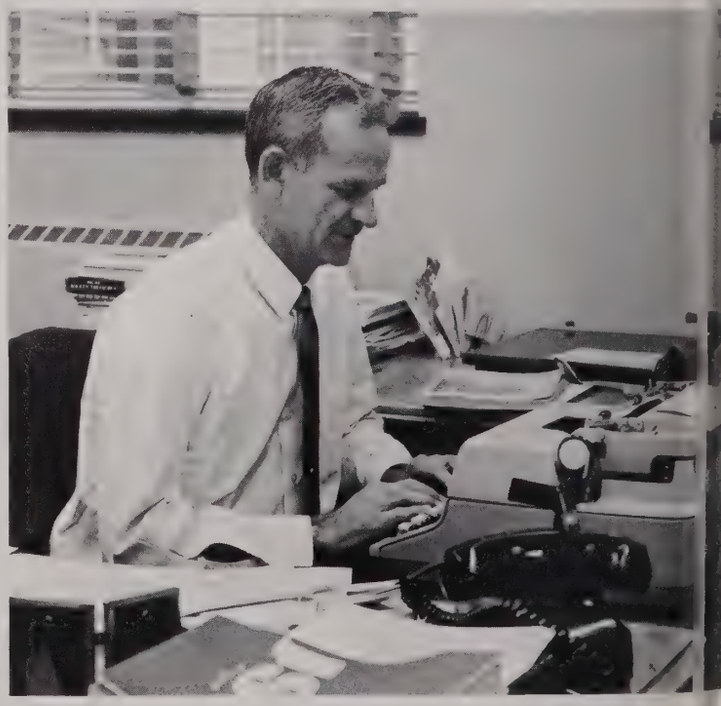
The director of unique Hulman Center, Mr. William Bennett, was aided in his official capacities by capable resident fellows.

The Housing Office handled housing reservations and payments, expenditures for maintenance and housekeeping, and hall food service. The Physical Plant supervised and planned new construction. The Director of Purchasing passed orders for departments. Tirey Memorial Union functioned as a student nucleus. Hulman Center was housing for male student teachers and for graduate students. The Business Office collected fees, prepared payroll, processed organization transactions, reported financial data, and collected the admission deposit fee required of all new students.

Mrs. Doris Staggs managed the campus bookstore, ordered and purchased merchandise, and trained the personnel.

Five Offices Functioned Under New Division

Mr. Ralph Marshall headed the Department of Conferences and Exhibits which arranged for conferences on campus, provided any exhibit space these conferences needed, and prepared exhibits for the campus and the state fair.



Mr. Joseph Kish in the Office of Information Services, prepared all University publicity and provided tours.

The Department of Alumni Relations, headed by Mr. Dale McKee, informed and interested alumni of University activities.

The Placement Bureau, directed by Mr. Al Harding, offered counseling services for seniors and alumni and scheduled job interviews for seniors.

Mr. Carl Parks headed the Indiana State Foundations Department raised funds for services and programs not supported by taxes and provided scholarships and grants-in-aid.

The Division of Development and Public Affairs, previously known as Public and Professional Services, established a new executive planning committee for the ISU Foundation to determine how it could aid ISU. A new Director of Alumni Relations was chosen. Last year the Office of Information Services published the Student-Faculty Directory. The Placement Bureau corresponded with 750-800 prospective employers.

Dr. Wayne Schomer, vice-president for the newly-named Division, coordinated the activities of its five offices which functioned to further University-community relations.

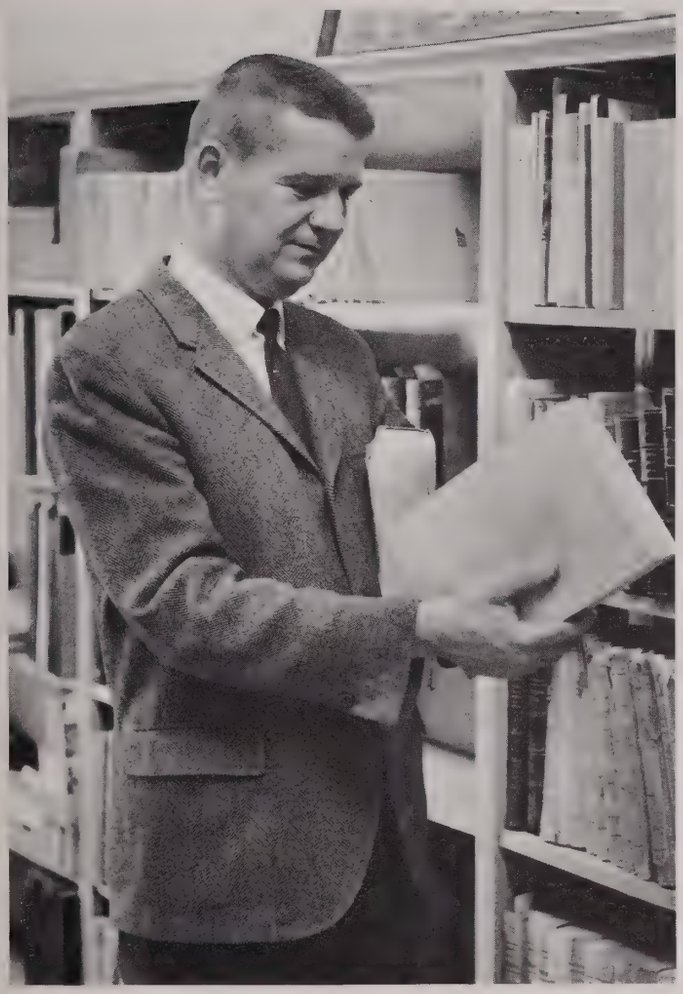
Facilities Directors Planned for Expansion

The Registrar planned for a new advanced registration program because of the growing enrollment, expected to reach 15,000 by 1970. The Package Loan Library was a new operation which enabled extension and correspondence students to select books from a list and borrow them through the mail. The Computer Center created a new system of grade reporting. For the first time, it had charge of the Blue Book.

Dr. Norbert Stirzaker, Extended Services Director, had charge of off campus facilities and adult education.

Noel Smith, Director of the Computer Center, added two new computers; computer programmer was James Kuykendall.

Registrar Dr. James K. Ringer and his office staff, rearranged the program to meet the needs of the University's increasing enrollment.



The Library Services, directed by Fred Hanes, increased by adding two division libraries and a Reserve Reading Room.

With a new director, Mr. Thomas Eachus, the Instructional Materials Center added three mobile classroom units.

The Audio-Visual Center added a new rear-screen projector. It maintained a library of educational and informative films in the Alumni Center. The Instructional Material Center added a new director and moved to the Bouman Dairy Building. Three mobile classrooms were added; library services were expanded to include the Extended Services, Reserve Reading Room, and Science Division Library. The biggest library change was the switch from the Dewey Decimal System to the Library of Congress System.

The Audio-Visual Center, under the direction of Mr. Russell McDougal, made tape and films, took pictures of special events, and made ID pictures.

Dean Richard Gemmecke and his secretary, Mrs. Gloria Baysinger, worked together to improve teacher education and organization in the College of Arts and Sciences.

College of Arts and Sciences Added Courses

The College of Arts and Sciences established the Center for Governmental Services in the Political Science Department and secured membership in the Inter-University Consortium for Political Research. A medical record librarianship was being developed, and a four year degree program in medical technology was initiated. The College established a committee composed of representatives from each department and set up faculty meetings. New courses were offered in criminology, print-making, ceramics, the Bible as literature, Greek, Portuguese, and art history.

Hearing the language spoken correctly by native speakers helped the student to comprehend the correct pronunciation.

The Art Department had more creative freedom than ever before. Unlike classes in other fields, true expression could be shown through the artists work.

Training for teaching certification or for positions in professional-vocational careers, over 1200 students were enrolled in the School of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

School of HPER Trained Over 1200 Students

Students put theories learned in the classroom into practical use.

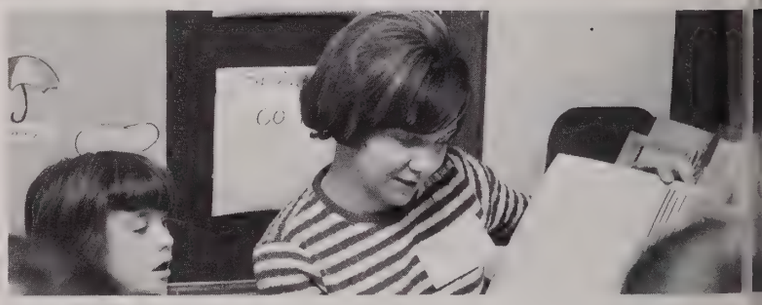
Five courses were added to the curriculum of the School of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation this year. They were leadership in intramurals, training room practice, measurements and evaluations of physical education, and field experience in athletic training. The School sponsored a tea last fall for new faculty members and a Christmas party for instructors in the three departments. By next fall, the Dean hoped to have a six-year pattern in physical education approved which would precede a doctoral program.

Dean Walter E. Marks provided an opportunity for athletic participation, sponsoring activities open to all students.

School of Education Utilized Novel Methods

Training rats and carefully observing their responses to various stimuli were two tasks carried out by students taking Experimental Psychology. Progress charts were posted regularly so that behavior patterns of the rodents could be studied and compared.

Dr. Fred Swalls assumed the post of Dean of the School of Education upon the resignation of Dr. William Engbretson.



An ISU student helped teach children at the Laboratory School as part of her teaching certification requirement.

The School of Education utilized several outstanding methods of instruction. One such technique was the use of a guidance laboratory where graduate students counseled other students, both in educational and vocational lines. A second unique facility was the psychology laboratory, where students planned and performed scientific. The behavior of rats and other animals was studied and compared to the behavior of man. Closed circuit television was advantageous in that a greater number of students could be educated at the same time.

School of Business Initiated New Aid Program

The heads of the two departments in the School of Business were Dr. Ralph Mason, Distributive Education, and Dr. Robert Steinbaugh, Business Administration.

Sharon McCullough and Barbara Hatcher were two who were participants in the new secretarial scholarship program.

The School of Business, directed by Dean Paul Muse, launched the secretarial scholarship program under which students were employed by the University in secretarial positions. Each student carried a 12-hour class load and a 20-hour work load. There was also a business internship for students majoring in business teacher education courses. Credit was awarded those who completed a paper based on work experiences with an assigned job.

The School of Business, under the direction of Dean Paul F. Muse, offered curriculums in Business Administration, Secretarial Science, Accounting, Finance, Insurance, Management, Real Estate, Marketing, and Transportation.

The Graduate School Added New Degrees

Graduate students working for the Master's Degree of Arts, Science, and Business Administration still found time to help undergraduates.

Dean Jacob Cobb administered the policies, rules, and regulations as formulated by the Graduate Committee.

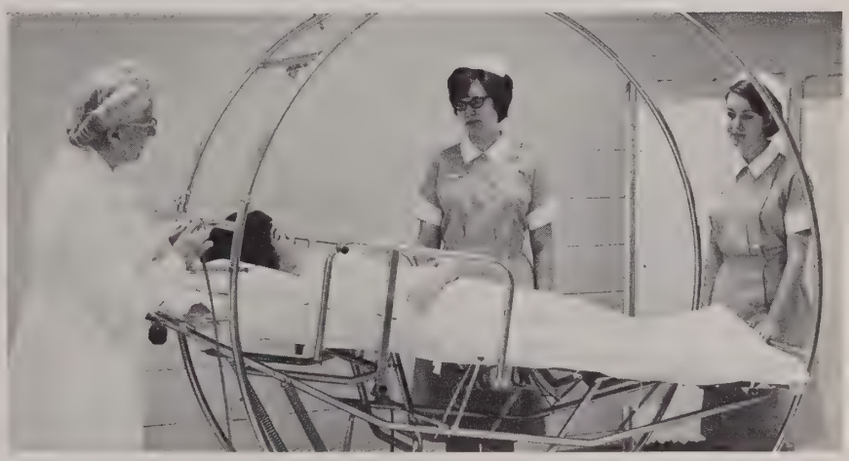
There were over 4,500 graduate students in the active files of the School of Graduate Studies. The school, newly-located in the Alumni Center, increased to over 300 full-time graduate students in the first semester. These students were not only from Indiana, but from other states and countries. Major areas of study at the master's degree level were available in some 30 fields. Added this year were master's degrees in health and safety, and in criminology.

Dr. Mary Ann Carroll is Assistant Dean of the School of Graduate Studies which now has programs leading to the Ph.D. degree in elementary education and in guidance and psychological services.

The School of Nursing Completed Its Fourth Year

The Veteran's Hospital in Danville, Illinois offered practical education in psychiatric nursing while the city Visiting Nurse Association provided public health experience.

The School of Nursing founded in 1963 and directed by Dean Dorothy McMullan, had a total enrollment of 95.



Nursing students received clinical theory and practice in their junior and senior years under the guidance of the faculty.

Completing its fourth year, the School of Nursing graduated its first four-year nursing students in June. After completing the four-year course, the student was prepared for a beginning professional nursing practice and took a standardized examination for a Registered Nursing License. Hospital clinical laboratory practice was conducted at Union Hospital. One course, advanced medical surgical nursing, was added to the curriculum. The school sponsored a tea for faculty members and nursing students last December.

A skillful part-time student and homemaker created her once-unmolded piece of clay into an original form.

Art Department

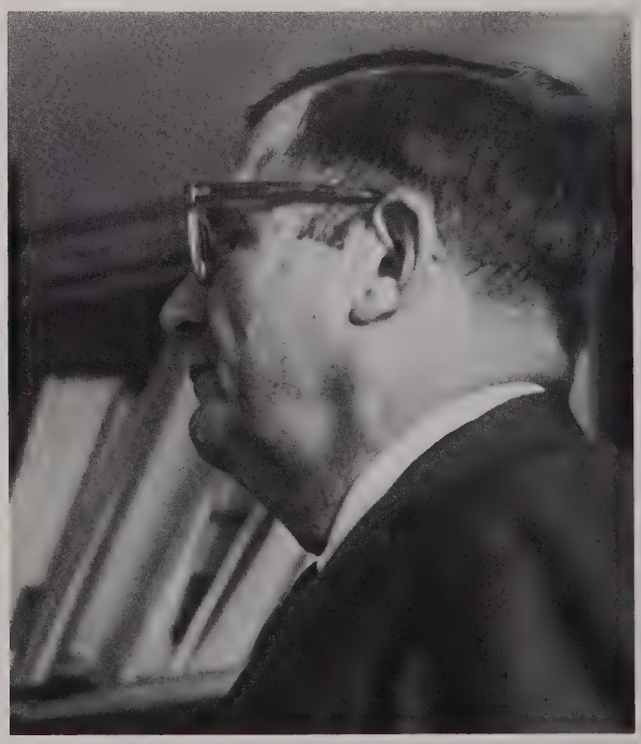
The Art Department had facilities for any art work that one could ask for. Last year the curriculum was revised for non-teaching art majors. These students could specialize in such fields as jewelry, ceramics, painting, print making, commercial art, or art education. Non-teaching majors could go into the field that they preferred. ISU offered five scholarships; these scholarships were acquired on a competitive basis and were open to freshman art majors.

Dr. Elmer Porter, chairman of the Art Department, gazed through a new art book to keep his department up-to-date.

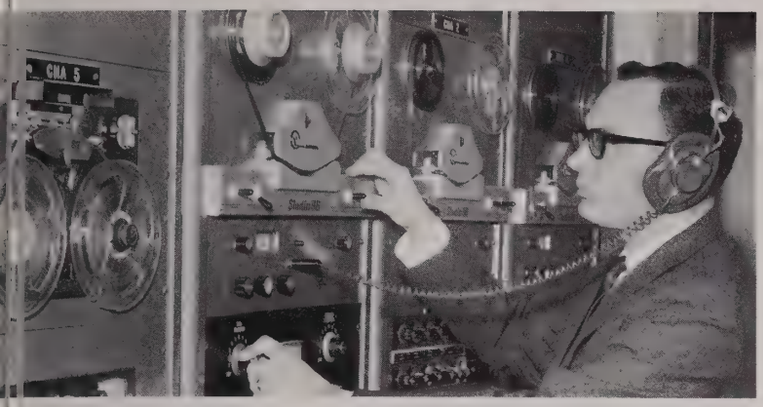
English Department

Thirteen new professors joined the faculty of the English Department and three new courses were offered last year. These new courses were The Bible as Literature, Introduction to Folklore, and a seminar in Independent Reading which involved the reading of books, giving reports and discussions, and hearing lectures. A writing laboratory was conducted by Dr. Joseph Murphy. This was the second year for the experiment in Freshman English classes.

Perfecting English grammar continued to be one of the foremost problems confronting entering freshman students.



The English Department, under the chairmanship of Dr. George Smock, had a new high enrollment of 6400 students.



The preparation room and the recording studio were part of the new equipment used in the language laboratory.

Foreign Language Department

The Foreign Language Department offered two more new languages, Portugese and Greek. Next year, a course in Italian will be added to the language curriculum. Filmstrips and records, newly introduced in the French classrooms, were perfected last year. The new language laboratory was opened last fall in Holmstedt Hall. The highlight of the semester was the production of the play "Neighbors," written by a visiting playwright from Argentina who taught in the Spanish Department, Mr. Carlos Gorostiza.

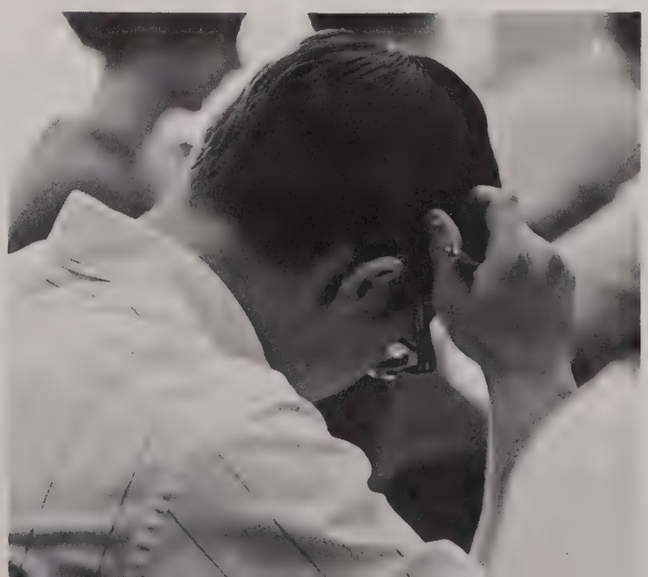
Dr. L. Curcio, Department Head, translated the play "Neighbors" into English for presentation at the Sycamore Theater.

Chairman of the Humanities Department, Dr. Walter A. Hipple, taught philosophy and has done work in art history.

General Humanities Department

The object of the Department of Humanities was to stimulate interest in the various fields of the humanities. The Department was staffed by six faculty members holding wide ranges of interest in the humanities. For the first time last year an A.B. program was offered in art history, permitting students to complete major requirements for a liberal arts degree. Next year, the Department plans to offer a course in comparative religions.

Courses offered in general humanities were designed to be interdisciplinary as well as interest-stimulating.



One of the newer offerings of the Home Economics Department was travel tours to New York and Europe.

Last year, the Home Economics Department added depth in the specialized areas of Child Development and Family Life, Family Economics and Home Management, Interior Design, Textiles, and Clothing. Programs such as the Family Life Institute, community experiences in family life education, child development and the interdisciplinary program in family financial education were added.

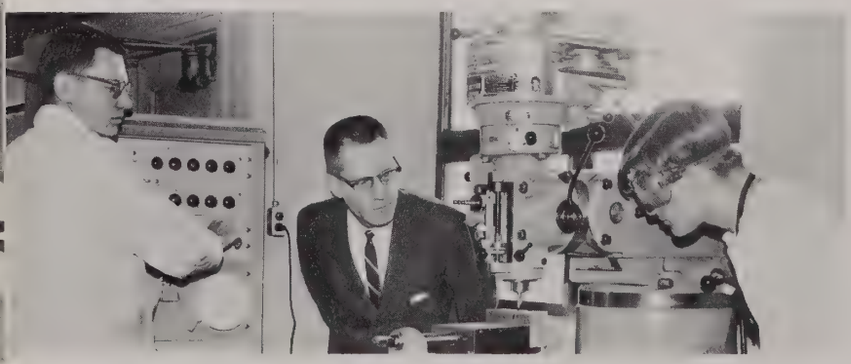
Home Economics Department

The Home Economics Department, directed by Dr. Ann Lee, offered an expansion program in the graduate program.

Industrial Education Department

The Industrial Education Department last year boosted its total of majors from 700 to 770. It added 13 new classes to the curriculum and nine new instructors to the staff to accommodate the rapidly growing school. Last year, the division was awarded the Industrial Arts Institute grant. This grant was used during the summer and students from all over the country took advantage of this program. Even with this progress, Dr. Yoho still expressed a desire for more enrollment of women I.E. majors.

Dr. Yoho observed as student and instructor demonstrated the many feats of the new numerical control machine.

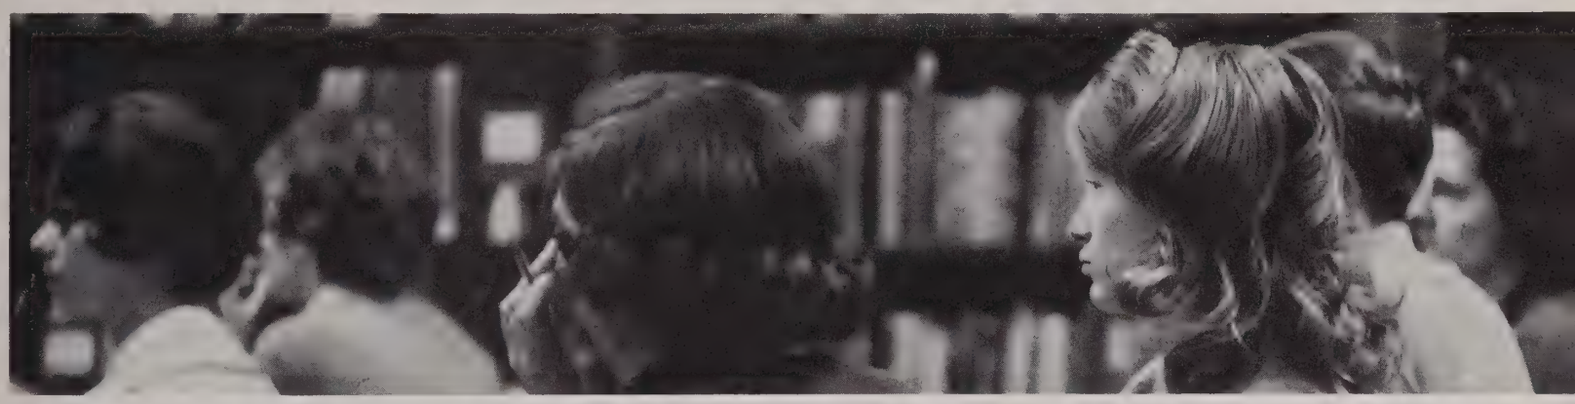


Showing rising enrollment of the charts, Dr. Lewis Yoho, chairman, knew of the upward trend in the I. E. Department.

Professor Norman F. Clarke, chairman, sought to improve and expand the limits of the Library Science Department.

Library Science Department

With a full-time faculty of four, the teaching staff of the Library Science Department satisfied the needs of the students both in the classroom, in practical areas, and in counseling service through making changes and improvements. A professional program in librarianship with a relationship of the library to the educational process was initiated. Dr. Helen Wheeler, noted for her knowledge of junior colleges, joined the staff which greatly added to its caliber.



Library Science classroom situations provided students with opportunity to gain knowledge of librarianship and also information on maintaining libraries in primary and secondary grades.

The new computer lab in the Math Department was recently equipped with an IBM 1130 computer for student and faculty use.

Mathematics Department

The Mathematics Department started the year with improved facilities, two new faculty members, and a newly-installed math honorary. The Department offered, in conjunction with the Department of Education, a Ph.D. program in math education. The Department offered thirty-five different courses and had twenty members on its teaching staff as well as twelve graduate and twenty undergraduate assistants. The Department maintained a statistics lab, a math education lab, and a computer lab.

Dr. Vesper Moore, chairman of the Department of Mathematics, worked to add more and better courses in mathematics.

Six new professors joined the faculty of the Music Department, under the chairmanship of Dr. James W. Barnes.

Music Department

The Music Department expanded its facilities by renting the former Centenary Methodist Parsonage and also its course offerings by adding Stage Band, taught by a new professional arranger. The Department was accepted into the National Association of Music Schools for both undergraduate and graduate degrees. In cooperation with the Rockefeller Foundation and Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, the Department planned a Contemporary Arts Festival.

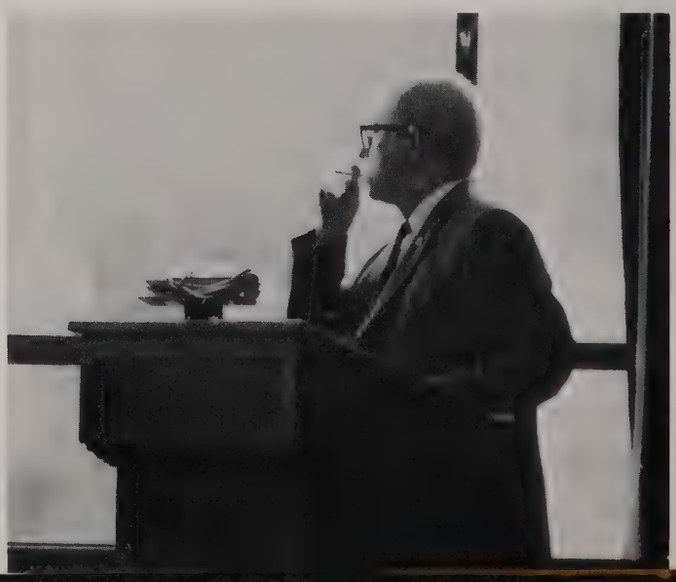
Students in the Music Department were offered courses in conducting in fulfilling requirements for their degrees.

Dr. Walter A. Bass, head of the Philosophy Department, guided this department in the continuing expansion.

Philosophy Department

The Philosophy Department gained two new assistant professors last year, which made a total of four full-time instructors and one part-time instructor. The twenty-five courses offered enabled many students to complete in two years a major in philosophy toward a liberal arts degree. These courses ranged from Ethics, Aesthetics, and Logic to Contemporary Philosophy, Philosophy of Religion, and Plato. Students in many of the courses studied readings in philosophy.

Dr. Eugene Dyche lectured to one of his classes concerning the writings of such philosophers as Plato and Socrates.



Science Division

The Science Division served as an administrative unit consisting of the departments of chemistry, geography and geology, life sciences, physics, and the new Science Teaching Center. An addition to the Science Building, which more than doubled the available space, was scheduled for completion early in 1968. The department of geography and geology and the department of life sciences anticipated offering programs leading to the Ph.D. with the departments of chemistry and physics initiating similar programs.

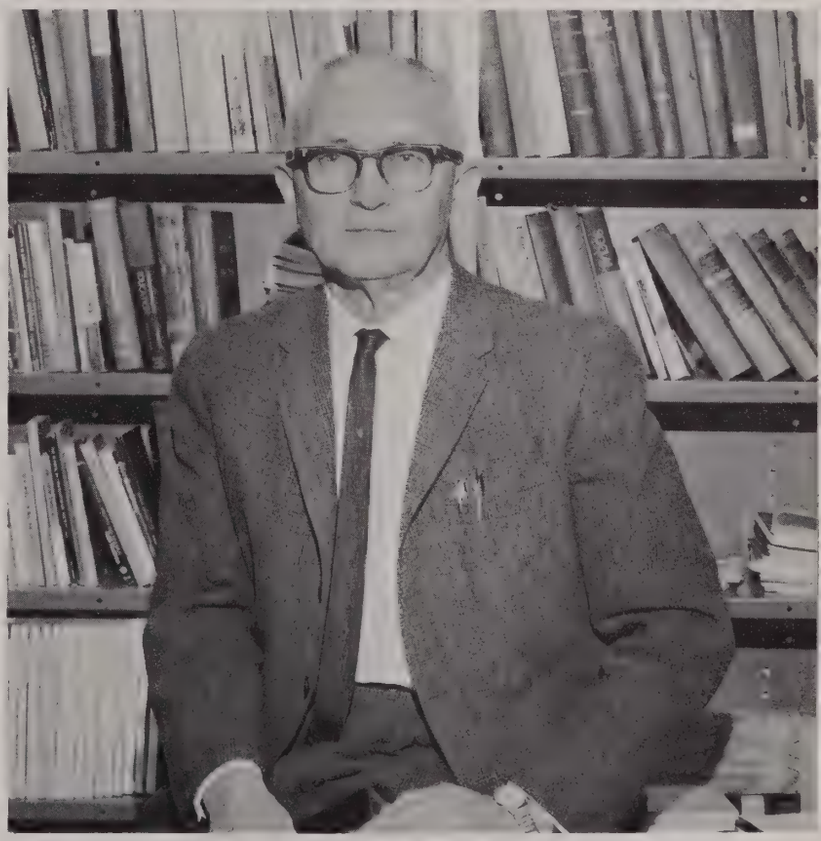
The Science Teaching Center was newly opened and was directed by Dr. C. Boener, Dr. K. Ulhorn, and Mr. S. Shimer.

The Science Division, under Dr. William G. Hopp, strengthened and broadened its graduate program in the departments.

Social Science Division

The Social Science Division formally opened the social science education center as a unit for research in teaching methods, new curriculum, and conduction of social science conferences. The center for Governmental Services did research and developed material on local government units. The center served to disseminate information on opportunities in governmental services. The anthropology lab and museum became a center for the anthropology students working in archeological research.

The Department of History, Economics, Political Science and Sociology were incorporated into the Social Science Division.

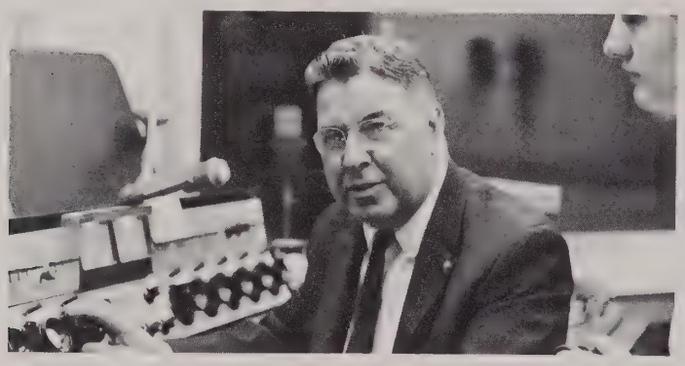


The Social Science Division, under Dr. Cloyd Anthony, opened centers and increased services to campus and community.

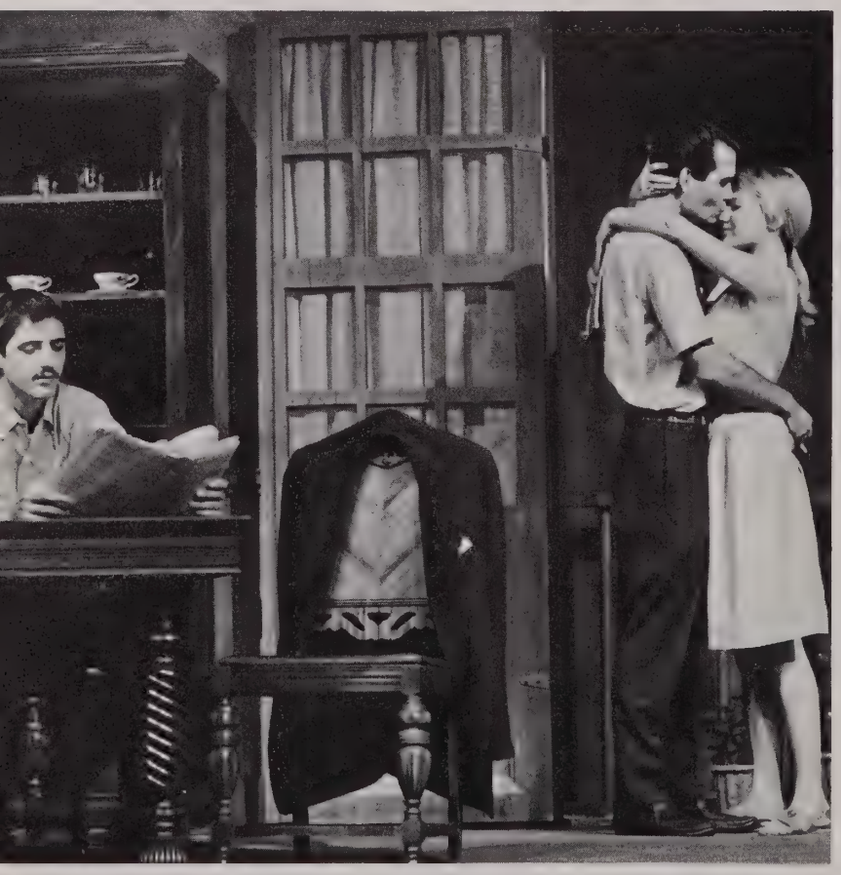
Speech Department

Four departments comprised the Speech Department. One of these, Forensics, performed about 20 debates this year. The Oral Interpretation classes read to elementary children. ISU's radio station, WISU, was very powerful with 13,500 watts; it broadcasted daily from 3 until 10 and presented the Metropolitan Opera on Saturday. Recorded tapes were sent to over 30 stations all over the U. S. The Theatre Department worked with Sycamore Players, Children's Theatre, and Community Theatre.

Dr. Clarence Morgan, chairman of the Speech Department, worked with I.S.U.'s extensive radio and television programs.



Students participated actively in the radio and television studios as part of their classroom requirements.

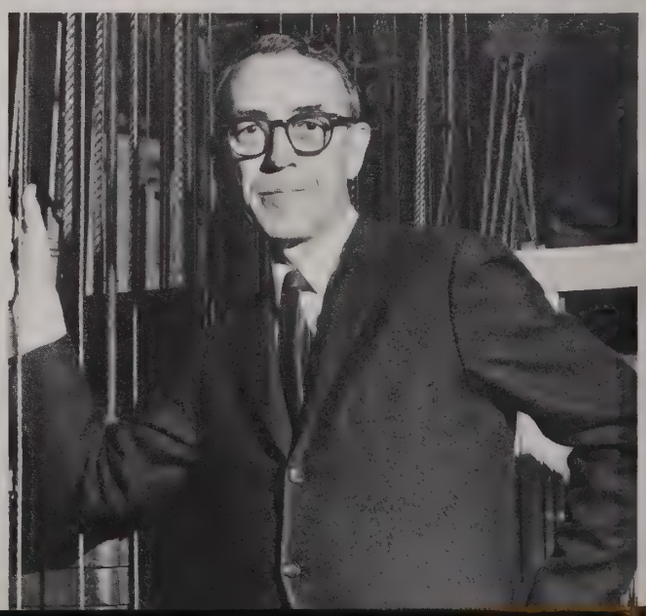


The play "Neighbors," by Mr. Carlos Gorostiza, was one of the unique highlights of Sycamore Player productions this year.

Theatre Department

The Theatre Department presented something different last year in the play "Neighbors." The Argentine playwright and director, Mr. Carlos Gorostiza, was on campus to direct its English language premiere. Another first was taking the play, "Never Too Late," to the Evansville extension. Four productions are planned for the summer, with graduate students forming the nucleus of those plays. Extra credit was awarded for participation in a summer workshop program.

Mr. Thomas Headley, chairman of the Theatre Department, worked behind the scenes to engineer a successful season.



'Reorganization' Was Watchword for Class Officers

The junior class trusted Action Party in elections—Tom Bozell, Susan Kline, Denise Shockley, Terry Campbell.

Senior president Dave Teany presented business as officers watched. Front: Dave Teany, Bev Lincoln. Back: Vicki Ray, Judy Dust.

Spirit was shown by sophomore leaders—Front: Tom Keightley, Pat Roberson. Back: Jan Faires, Doug Holaday, Chuck Rubright.

"Reorganization" was the watchword for last year's class officers. Freshman and sophomore council members combined for the purpose of orienting and activating freshman students. While junior class officers busily prepared for the Junior-Senior Prom, senior class officers co-ordinated such activities as Founders Day, Alumni-Senior Day, and Commencement Exercises. All officers worked with Student Government Association toward understanding the needs of the students.

Yes, happiness was a mixture of all these things . . . It was the perfect blend of 10,529 people living, working, and most of all growing together . . . It was the bittersweet mixture of the joys and sorrows that accompany every college year and turn us into adults . . . It was the excitement and bewilderment of incoming freshmen coupled with the nostalgia of graduating seniors.

Yet still this was not all that happiness was . . . Perhaps it could best be explained as the smile that came with knowledge . . . the knowledge of your acceptance by those around you . . . intellectual knowledge . . . knowledge of your identity as a person. THIS WAS OUR HAPPINESS . . . and in our happiness lay the glimmering promise of greater tomorrows.

Happiness is . . .

Thanks.
